FROM YOUR PRESIDENT

george d. hatie

The Honolulu Convention was an outstanding success. Congratulations to General Chairman Larry Baber, all of his convention co-workers and to Ed Rochette, Ruthann Brettell and the other participating members of our ANA staff.

A matter of great concern to our hobby is the introduction of state and local legislation imposing burdensome and unreasonable obligations upon coin dealers. Such legislation treats legitimate coin dealers (along with pawn brokers, scrap dealers and precious metal dealers) as suspected purchasers of stolen property.

Although the statutes and ordinances vary from one locality to another, most of them impose requirements of the following nature:

1. The police are given the right, without obtaining a search warrant, to enter a coin dealer's premises, at any time during business hours, and inspect and search through all of his books, records and inventory.

2. A coin dealer must record a description of each coin he purchases and the name, age, description and address of the seller and must furnish all such information to the police on printed forms at weekly or in some instances daily intervals.

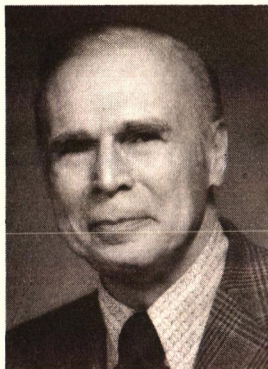

3. A coin dealer must retain each item purchased for a specified period of time. Three ordinances specified holding periods of seven, fifteen and thirty days respectively.

Such laws are objectionable to both dealers and collectors. They also make it undesirable to hold a coin convention or coin show in any locality in which such laws are in effect.

During one of the Honolulu meetings, the ANA board adopted a resolution opposing such statutes and ordinances, for presentation to public officials who are considering such legislation.

ANA maintains a clearinghouse to assemble information as to hobby related legislation and litigation throughout the nation. In this way hobbyists in various parts of the country can obtain data about precedent setting actions in other jurisdictions. I hope that members having such material will send copies to me or to ANA headquarters.

Collectors should join with dealers in opposing such laws by conferring with members of the common council, legislature or other pertinent governing body, by writing letters or signing petitions in opposition to such laws and by attending public hearings relating thereto.

Member Praises Exemplary Dealer

In March 1979 I purchased from Martin Levy of Seattle, Washington, one 1798 Small Eagle Dollar in Very Fine condition. In December 1980 I decided to sell the coin and was told by the potential buyer that the coin was expertly repaired/retooled and therefore could not bring the Very Fine price, and the coin was returned to me. On advising Mr. Levy of the situation, he did offer to replace the coin, and will.

After all that time, Martin Levy never hesitated to correct the situation.

This represents the Supreme Guarantee.

Errors Pointed Out in Author's Travel Observations

I am distressed by a couple of errors that crept into the January issue of The Numismatist, p. 22.

The caption below the upper illustration states that "the Parthenon has appeared on Greek coins since the earliest years of coinage." In fact, however, the Parthenon is represented only on an issue of Athenian coins of the Roman period (probably 2nd century after Christ), and that only as part of the Acropolis. The author of the legend was probably thinking of the goddess Athena whose head does indeed appear on the obverse of Athenian coins throughout both Greek and Roman times.

In the legend below the lower figure, we read that "the Agora, or ancient market, was reconstructed by the Germans during the Nazi occupation of World War II." The building represented is in fact the Stoa of Attalos which was but one of the many buildings that stood around the Agora or city center of ancient Athens. Erected in the 2nd century B.C. by Attalos II King of Pergamon (159-138 B.C.) the Stoa was rebuilt to serve as a museum for the finds from the excavation of the Agora. The reconstruction, like the excavation, was the work of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens. The rebuilding was done in the years 1953-56, and was paid for by contributions from the late John D. Rockefeller, Jr. and scores of other private donors.

I trust that these two legends are not typical of the impressions of ancient Athens brought back by the travelers.

Reading Recommended for Election Insights

Through changes in election mechanics—"numbered seats" and "staggered terms"—ANA has sought to overcome its leadership problems. I doubt that these changes will accomplish much; I'm less than sure that they're desirable at all. However, for those who share my concern for the long-term best educational interest of the Association, I've chanced upon some remarkable, quite possibly relevant, reading. By Professor Lynn Arthur Steen, St. Olaf College, it deals with "approval voting," so called. See Scientific American, October 1980, page 16.

Numismatic Researcher Notes Correction

I read with considerable interest the article by Thomas Sebring entitled "The 1793 Chain Cents" in the January issue. The auction records are a welcome confirmation of the original mint-age figures since the latter are based on breaks in the coinage and not mint documentation as to type changes.

There is one point that Mr. Sebring was not aware of when the article was written. His statement that there is no hard evidence on the identity of the Chain Cent engraver is not quite correct. In recent years evidence has been found showing rather conclusively, I believe, that Chief Coiner Henry Voight was responsible for these dies. Droz had nothing to do with any of our dies. The principal proof for Voight's involvement in die-cutting is found in the report made by the special House Committee, which investigated Mint affairs in the winter of 1794-1795.

This small point should not detract from a well-written and useful article on our early coinage.

Reader Praises ANACS

I was interested to note a letter regarding ANACS grading in the January 1981 The Numismatist. The writer expressed concern over ANACS' "conservative" grading practices threatening the service's usefulness to the collecting community. I found this funny because just yesterday I spoke with a Texas dealer who said that ANACS was "overgrading."

As one who values his ANA membership, I would like to express my unqualified support for a well done job by ANACS. I have sent several pieces in for grading from many different dealers and have always found ANACS standards to be very reasonable.

Proof of this is that some dealers I transact business with are more than willing to have ANACS grade their material before they sell it. If ANACS standards were impossible to meet, this practice would not be growing among reputable dealers who also grade conservatively. I suspect the complaints come from dealers who perennially sell MS-65 and buy back at MS-60.

Well done ANACS. Please keep your standards high and both dealers and collectors will be well served.

Auction of Smithsonian Duplicates Suggested

In the middle of all the fanfare for the Garrett Collection Sales and the recent sale of a Brasher Doubloon, I have a suggestion.

Why doesn't the Smithsonian Institution auction off its duplicate coins? Such an auction, given proper media coverage, could bring untold publicity to the hobby and could encourage new collectors in the field of numismatics.

Example: I believe that all three known specimens of the 1822 $5 gold piece are held by the Smithsonian. Why do they need three?

A Smithsonian auction could also bring back a sense of history to collecting, discarding the "investment only" attitude.

Czech Student Seeks Exchange with Young Numismatists

My name is Philipp Marco. I am a Czech living in Prague and I am 13 years old. I am a pupil of a language school, where I am learning English, German and Russian. And I am an ardent collector of coins and paper money from all the world. I would like very much to find a friend somewhere in America to exchange with him coins and banknotes. I can offer not only coins and good banknotes from my own country, Czechoslovakia, from pre-war times to today, but also banknotes from Germany, Austria, Poland, Hungary and the Balkan states, and from Russia too. I would like to get some coins and banknotes of the U.S.A., but also from Canada, Mexico and other American countries, of which I have none. I admire those banknotes of past times in the United and Federated States of America which are beautifully engraved, for example those of private banks with scenes of life in old America, Indians and old trains.

I found your address in an old copy of Coin World Almanac and I firmly hope you can help me. Many thanks for all your kindness. I promise to be honest and to send the best I have for exchange.

NUMISMATIC NARRATIVES

Adelphi University Announces Spring Course Offerings

Adelphi University of Garden City, N.J., has announced that its Institute of Numismatic and Philatelic Studies will offer three 10-session courses during its spring semester.

A comprehensive course in Fundamentals of Coin Collecting and Investing will introduce students to numismatics through study of colonial coins and currency, gold coins, contemporary BU coins, and theories and practicalities of rare coin investment. The course will be presented by guest lecturers, each a recognized expert in the field of numismatics.

The Institute will also offer a new course, Coins of the Ancient World, for students who wish to examine the historical, cultural and religious background of coins of the ancient world. Greek, Roman, Byzantine and Biblical numismatics will be introduced with specific emphasis on the techniques and designs of these periods. Distinguished guest speakers will include Harry Greenberg, Sylvia Haffner, Herbert Kreindler, Herbert Melnick and Edward Waddell.

A course in Rare Coin Grading and Authenticating offering practical demonstrations will be led by F. Michael Fazzaro, Assistant Director of the International Numismatic Society Authentication Bureau in Washington, D.C.

Registration for these courses, which will be held from March 7 through May 16, 1981, is now in progress; late registration will be accepted. Further information and a detailed course brochure is available from the Institute of Numismatic and Philatelic Studies, Adelphi University, Garden City, NY 11530. Telephone inquiries may be made of Dr. James F. Bender, Dean of Development, 516-294-8700, extension 7660.

Papal Medals on Exhibit

"Roma Resurgens: Papal Medals From The Age of the Baroque" will be on view at the Mount Holyoke College Art Museum from March 4 through April 26, 1981. The exhibition, the first of its kind in this country, includes 172 medals from the sixteenth through the eighteenth centuries.

Struck in gold, silver, and bronze, the medals are of interest today for both their aesthetic and historical importance. Appealing works of miniature sculpture, they are also persuasive instruments of papal propaganda. Since the mid-fifteenth century, the Papacy has used such medals to assert its claims, celebrate its victories, proclaim its doctrines, and announce its programs. This series of commemorative medals is the most extensive produced by any institution of western civilization.

The exhibition was organized by Professors Varianno of Mount Holyoke College and Nathan Whitman of the University of Michigan, both specialists in Roman Baroque art. They have prepared a comprehensive, illustrated catalogue with a full discussion of each medal and an introductory essay emphasizing matters of numismatic importance. All of the medals in the exhibition have been borrowed from public and private collections in the United States, with important loans from the American Numismatic Society, the Bowdoin College Museum of Art, and the collections of Andrew Ciechanowiecki and Michael Hall.

Supported by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, Roma Resurgens will also be shown at the The University of Chicago, Smart Gallery, from July 1 to August 9, (1981) and the University of Michigan Museum of Art from August 22 to October 11, 1981.

Garrett IV and Roy Harte Sales Scheduled

The fourth and final auction featuring the Garrett Collection of United States coins will be held in Los Angeles on March 25-26, 1981, by Bowers and Ruddy Galleries, Inc. Sold at unrestricted auction sale to the order of the owner, the Johns Hopkins University, the sale will feature many unique, rare and important pieces.

The auction lineup includes nine different 1792 United States Mint pattern issues, including an uncirculated 1792 silver center cent; a 1792 cent of the same design without silver center, originally part of the Maris Collection which was sold in 1886; a 1792 birch cent with lettered edge; and a unique uncirculated 1792 birch cent in white metal with G.W. Pt. on the reverse (for "George Washington, President").

Also slated for auction is a 1792 AU half Disme in silver, an AU Disme in copper with plain edge and a 1792 "Wright quarter," with obverse and reverse striking in white metal.

The highlight of the sale is the only known example of the 1787 Brasher Doubloon with the hallmark EB on the eagle's breast. In addition to these selections, the sale will include a huge collection of Washington tokens and medals, and a large collection of California small denominations of gold.

Immediately following the Garrett Collection sale, Bowers and Ruddy Inc. will present at auction the Roy Harte Collection which will include a comprehensive offering of Morgan and Peace dollars; a fine collection of United States 1873 patterns, and many Hard Times Tokens, medals, and other American "exonumia." Further information about these sales and information regarding sale catalogs can be obtained from Bowers and Ruddy Galleries, 6922 Hollywood Blvd., Suite 600, Los Angeles, CA 90028.

PEOPLE

"Wall Street Week" Interviews Perschke

Walter Perschke's guest appearance on "Wall Street Week" on December 19 marks the first time this respected TV series devoted to financial and economic news has featured an expert on rare coin investment. In response to questions from host Louis Rukeyser and panelists Howard P. Colhoun, Julius Westheimer and Martin Zweig, Mr. Perschke offered practical advice to new investors, discussed the relationship between bullion and numismatic coin prices and made several buy recommendations. "Wall Street Week," now in its tenth season on the air, is one of public television's most popular shows.

Host Rukeyser focused conversation on the concerns of investors who are considering numismatic investments for the first time. Walter Perschke responded with concrete suggestions on how to select an investment coin, how to diversify a numismatic portfolio, and how much money to invest. He also answered such questions as what to do with $1,000, how to store rare coins and how rare coin prices have held up in periods of deflation and depression.

"Wall Street Week" used information provided by Mr. Perschke to prepare a graphic presentation of the performance of rare coins over the past ten years. The data showed that numismatic gold coins have appreciated to 58 times their 1971 prices, while gold bullion had increased to only 21 times even at its 1980 peak. Silver coins did even better than gold, and both resisted the declines in bullion, dropping only 8 percent and 20 percent, respectively.

Mr. Perschke predicted lower gold and silver bullion prices, and does not expect them to turn up again until 1982. However, he believes that we could be headed into stronger rare coin prices "very, very soon—within the first quarter of next year."

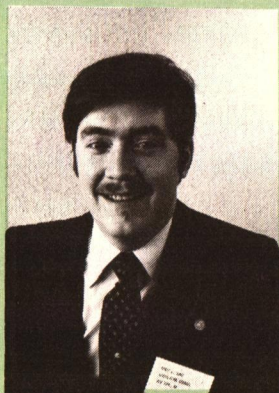

Transcripts of "Wall Street Week" are available for $1 from: Wall Street Week, Owings Mills, Maryland 21117. Requests for transcripts should include the show's date, December 19, 1980, and the program's title, "An Interview with Walter Perschke."

First Coinvestors, Inc. Names Chief Financial Officer

First Coinvestors, Inc., a leading publicly owned New York firm in the rare coin and stamp field, recently announced the appointment of Donald S. Lewis as Senior Vice President for Finance and Chief Financial Officer of the rapidly expanding organization.

Lewis, who received both his B.A. and M.A. degrees in Business Administration from the University of Michigan, has an extensive senior corporate financial management background. His career includes a 12-year association with Arthur Andersen & Co. where he served for three years as a partner; significant tenures as a Director and Senior Vice President for Finance of Foote, Cone & Belding Communications, Inc.; and as a Director, Senior Vice President, and Chief Financial Officer of Playboy Enterprises, Inc.

David Ganz Appointed to FAO Program

Since 1968 the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO) has promoted the theme "Grow More Food" by supporting more than 77 world governments in their efforts to issue coins with that motto. Now, with more than 200 different coin types and four billion pieces issued, the program is seeking to expand still further.

"Coins issued as part of the program serve multifold purposes," program chief Clive Stannard declared as he announced the appointment of David L. Ganz of New York as special counsel and numismatic advisor to the U.N. program. "First, they call attention to the local population the need for all mankind to grow more food. Second, they give us the resources to help finance agricultural development, food growth projects, and experimentation in developing countries." To date more than 50 nations have received grants from FAO to issue new coins, with funds coming principally from profits on sales of the coins to collectors.

Ganz, an attorney who is also legislative counsel to the American Numismatic Association, is a specialist in coinage law. A widely respected author and columnist, he has published more than 3,000 articles on coins and legal subjects in the last 15 years.

In making the appointment, which calls for up to 60 days of service each year, Stannard said Ganz would assist in contract negotiations with government issuers and marketing agents, and would also help the program coordinate future strategies.

LITERATURE

Society Issues New Price List

A current price list for Croatian bank notes issued by the Independent State of Croatia, 1941-1945, is available from the Croatian Numismatic Society, 1512 Lancelot, Borger, TX 79007. The list is free to all interested collectors.

Requests should be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

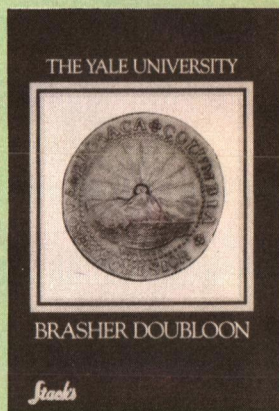

Also available from the society is a 300 page catalog listing coins, paper money, stamps and military decorations of Croatia. The illustrated list, available postpaid from the above address, is priced at $16.

Brasher Doubloon Catalog Available

Relatively few coin dealers have had the enviable opportunity of managing the sale of a magnificent numismatic rarity, particularly one with a price greater than half a million dollars. Stack's recent sale of the Yale Brasher Doubloon, however, has set a new standard in the numismatic marketing of such precious offerings.

In preparation for the sale, Stack's created an impressive sales brochure, a detailed description and chronicle of the Brasher Doubloon. Although representatives of the media received copies of the booklet, the Doubloon was purchased so quickly that few of the special catalogs reached the hands of collectors and dealers.

The catalog is a 16-page booklet printed in full color. In addition to serving as a sales tool, the booklet is a definitive account of this historic coin, revealing the fascinating history of the piece including the story of its theft and dramatic recovery in the mid 1960s.

Written by Stack's staff member Jim Risk, the brochure is an accurate reference for numismatists, especially those with a curiosity about this most famous work of Ephraim Brasher. For a $1 service charge to cover postage and handling, collectors can obtain this delightful and informative booklet from Stack's, 123 W. 57th St., New York, NY 10019.

U.S. COIN DESIGNS

Time for a Change
in our 'Change'?

by Ed Reiter, LM 1034

"It's a question of national image . . . 2,000 years from now what will archeologists think of our great country when they look at today's puny coinage?"

A WISE MAN ONCE OBSERVED that change is the only constant. He probably wasn't speaking of Americans' pocket change, but he might just as well have been—for few forms of change have been as constant.

A bland sameness has characterized United States coins in recent decades; aside from the $1 denomination, only one U.S. coin has undergone a complete design change in the last 32 years. The Lincoln cent has been with us since 1909 . . . the Washington quarter since 1932 . . . the Jefferson nickel since 1938 . . . the Roosevelt dime since 1946. But for the tragic death of John F. Kennedy, the Franklin half dollar probably still would be with us, too. It's true that there have been two new $1 coins in the last decade, but these are hardly ever encountered in circulation—and the Susan B. Anthony dollar is, in any event, a special case.

In a world filled with tumult, there is, of course, something to be said for continuity. For many Americans the sameness of U.S. coinage probably provides reassurance, rather like a frayed but familiar pair of slippers. Critics argue strenuously, though, that coinage should be more than merely functional and familiar. Coins are regarded as mirrors of a nation's culture, and coin designs, ideally, are seen as pocket-size works of art that reflect the esthetic attainments and aspirations of its people.

"It's a question of national image," says DR. CORNELIUS VERMEULE, curator of classical art at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. "The world judges ancient civilizations to a great extent by their coins, and 2,000 years from now, what will archeologists think of our great country when they look at today's puny coinage?"

Dr. Vermeule has been a student—indeed, a scholar—of U.S. coin designs; hobbyists know and respect him as the author of the much acclaimed book, Numismatic Art in America. After years of study and analysis, he has come to the reluctant conclusion that the nation's current coinage is artistically "impoverished."

"Except for a few small turnarounds like the Bicentennial coinage, we've been coasting downhill since not long after the end of World War II," he declares. "You might say it's like the state of our Armed Forces, or, for that matter, our automobile industry. It makes one wonder where the old-time values have gone."

ROBERT A. WEINMAN, past president of the National Sculpture Society, shares this gloomy assessment. "The current U.S. coin designs leave much to be desired," Weinman says. "It's kind of pathetic that such an allegedly great nation is satisfied with such positively lousy coinage."

Weinman's interest in coin design is personal and intense. His father, the late Adolph A. Weinman, designed two U.S. coins that are greatly admired for their beauty: the Winged Liberty (or "Mercury") dime and the Walking Liberty half dollar. His older brother, Howard Weinman, designed the 1936 commemorative half dollar marking Long Island's tercentenary. And he himself was chairman of the panel that judged the entries in the U.S. Treasury's Bicentennial coin design competition.

Weinman sees merit in some of our current designs; he is fond of the portraits of Thomas Jefferson on the nickel and John F. Kennedy on the half dollar, for example. For the most part, however, he finds our coins artistically static and even stagnant for two principal reasons: the Treasury's reluctance to change designs and its practice in the recent decades—with the notable exception of the Bicentennial contest—of excluding outside sculptors on the all-too-infrequent occasions when new designs are considered.

"The problem is an old one," he observes. "It goes back, I suppose, to the days of Charles Barber, when he was Mint engraver and President Teddy Roosevelt who called on Augustus Saint-Gaudens to model U.S. coins on the Greek classics. Objections were raised from the start: the coins wouldn't stack, they wore too rapidly, and so forth. The esthetes lost that round to the technicians, and we've had an uphill battle ever since."

MICO KAUFMAN, another of the nation's outstanding medallic artists (see accompanying article), heartily agrees that it's time for a change in Americans' pocket change, and a change in the way it is chosen. "There is a multitude of top artists who have individuality and originality," Kaufman says, "and if you are going to seek new designs for coins or medals or whatever, it would be best to get them from the best people available in the country, rather than always turning to someone who just happens to be working for the Mint."

Kaufman is best known to hobbyists as the designer of the official vice presidential and presidential inaugural medals for Gerald R. Ford. He has handled many other important

MICO KAUFMAN:

Freedom has special meaning for sculptor Mico Kaufman. He lost his own during World War II, when he spent three years in Nazi concentration camps in his native Romania; so he values the freedom of being an American all the more. It distresses Kaufman highly, then, to find that United States coinage suffers, in his judgment, from a lack of artistic freedom—held in bondage, as it were, by bureaucratic chains that have kept it in recent decades from rising above the mundane.

"I should think we would strive to field the most beautiful coins we could," he says in a voice clearly anguished. "What we have, instead, is an undistinguished group of presidential portraits and eagles."

It was this concern . . . this sense of distress . . . that prompted Kaufman to sketch the two proposed coin designs that appear with the accompanying article on the need for a change in Americans' pocket change. They are, of course, preliminary drafts and lack some details that would have to be included under current federal statutes. They convey the sculptor's concepts, thought, and demonstrate the fresh approach he'd like to see taken with our coins.

Freshness is a hallmark of Mico Kaufman's work. He is a master of portraiture, as shown by the impressive likenesses of Gerald R. Ford on the official Ford vice presidential and presidential inaugural medals, both of them Kaufman creations. He is, at the same time, an artist with a penchant and a gift for the abstract. This can be seen in the intriguing design that appears on the reverse of the official ANA convention medal of 1976, for which Kaufman won a $500 award in a special competition. It captures the spirit of New York City, the site of the '76 convention, by showing a series of skyscrapers as they'd look from the perspective of someone gazing skyward from the ground.

Kaufman also designed the official medal for the 1973 ANA convention in Boston. He has done other works with political overtones as well, most notably two much-acclaimed, though unofficial, medals marking the inauguration of President Jimmy Carter and Vice President Walter Mondale in 1977. More recently, he designed the official medal for the 350th anniversary of the founding of the city of Boston, an event that was marked on September 17, 1980.

He can be prolific, if need be, without losing his sharp edge of creativity. This talent can be seen most dramatically in the series of 200 medals he designed for the Danbury Mint to capsulize 200 years of U.S. history. And his work has enormous variety. He has done everything from medals to large-scale sculptures and has dealt with subjects ranging from Arthur Fiedler to Moby Dick.

He might have sought his niche in music instead of sculpture if World War II had not interrupted his life and his budding career. He was well on his way to becoming a classical violinist in Romania when the outbreak of war cut short his education and set in motion furies that would place him in mortal peril. While still in his teens, he found himself, like so many other Jews, doing forced labor for the Nazis.

"The time I spent in concentration camps was a very difficult period," he relates. "But looking back, I think the experience was the best thing that could have happened to me. It enabled me to get acquainted with myself. I had never been faced with any kind of stress, and it really surprised me that I could stand all this. I didn't know I had the strength I did; I didn't come out cracked."

Kaufman was 21 when Hitler's Germany fell. His difficulties didn't end, however, when the war did. He had lived through the ordeal, something that couldn't be said for many of his friends and neighbors. But the war had left his homeland in shambles, and he was forced to seek his future elsewhere. "I found the world quite different," he says, "from what I thought it would be. People suffered hunger, and there wasn't much for anyone to do." He himself became quite ill and spent the early postwar period struggling to regain his health.

Shortly before the war, Kaufman had learned the basics of constructing violins and had found he possessed great aptitude for carving. Recalling this skill and the pleasure it had given him, he turned in war's aftermath to sculpture, rather than music. In 1947, as a refugee, he received a scholarship to the Academy of Fine Arts in Rome, where he studied for the next three years. Then, in 1951, at the age of 27, he came to the United States.

"I couldn't speak English," he recalls, "and the people who were helping me get a job had never placed a sculptor anywhere. Whenever they saw an ad for a skilled man, they sent me, and I ended up doing machine shop work, gluing coats in a raincoat factory and doing a lot of other things I never thought I would do. But I never lost sight of what I was going to do once I got past the detours: professional sculpture.

"There must be a lot of talented people who encounter hardships," he adds. "Many might have come with a lot of dreams and ended up selling cars. But I was determined to succeed."

Kaufman settled in the Boston area not long after his arrival in the United States, and his first artistic work was for Boston's Caproni Galleries. For more than 10 years, though, the bulk of his work was about as esthetic as the golden arch of the McDonald's hamburger chain. He did more than 400 Simple Simon signs for the Howard Johnson restaurants during that time. "It isn't great art, but it's what you have to do to make a living," he observes.

His emergence in the field of fine art was slow at first, but in recent years he has come to be recognized as a first-rate sculptor and medalist and has found himself with many important commissions and many awards and honors. One of the accolades in which he takes special pride is the ANA's Numismatic Art Award, which was bestowed upon him in 1978 at the ANA convention in Houston. "I feel honored and flattered that the ANA singled me out for this very prestigious award. It is always very satisfying to receive such recognition for your work."

In 1976, he was one of a dozen distinguished sculptors whose works were chosen to represent the United States at the 16th International Exposition of Contemporary Medalists in Cracow, Poland. A U.S. citizen since 1956, he is a member of the prestigious National Sculptor Society and is listed in Who's Who in the Arts in America and Who's Who in the East.

The high point of his career, Kaufman says, was his selection by Medallic Art Co. to design the Ford inaugural medals.

"Considering the honor, I would say you can go no higher," he exclaims.

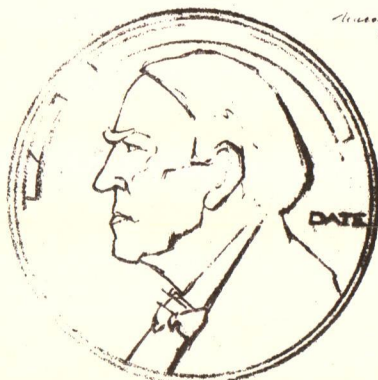

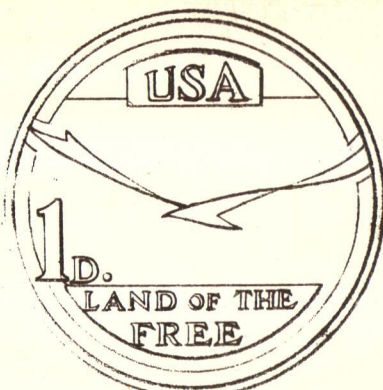

He hadn't met Ford at the time he designed the first of the two medals, but he got to meet his famous subject, then vice president, at a ceremony at the Capitol Building in Washington. "I think you've done a beautiful job," Ford told him, "especially when you consider the material you had to work with."

Looking to the future, Kaufman hopes to help his community, Tewksbury, Massachusetts, establish a cultural center—something on the order of Brookgreen Gardens, near Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, where a fine collection of sculpture has been assembled. Medals, too, continue to figure prominently in his plans.

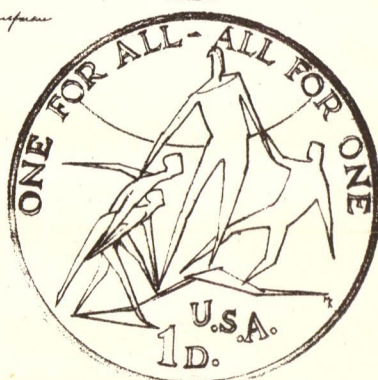

"I enjoy medallic art," he declares, "and I find it very challenging, too. It's very exacting.

"A sculptor doesn't condescend to do medals," he goes on, "but he has to feel it's on a compromise basis—two-and-a-half-dimensional, rather than three, offering one view. It's a challenge to bring to any level you choose."

Mico Kaufman relishes a challenge. And if past performance is any indication, he'll bring his future work to a very high level indeed.

commissions as well, and his work is as impressive as it is prolific.

He has definite ideas on how U.S. coins could be improved, and to show he is a man of deeds as well as ideals, he dramatized some of them recently by sketching prospective designs for two such coins. Both designs retain a tie with traditional U.S. coinage by featuring famous Americans on the obverse; Benjamin Franklin in one case, inventor Thomas Edison in the other. Both would break new ground, though, on the reverse.

The Franklin coin would show a soaring eagle—or rather, a modernistic depiction of an eagle in flight—to suggest, in Kaufman's words, "the individual freedom and the freedoms of spirit that our people so value." Below would appear the motto, LAND OF THE FREE.

The Edison coin would differ even further from the standard coinage "molds" so long in use. Its reverse would show a group of four highly stylized human figures, positioned in such a way as to underscore their interdependence. This time the motto would read, ONE FOR ALL—ALL FOR ONE.

"Why can't our coins bear a reminder of the uniqueness of our country, of what we are about?" Kaufman asks. "I honestly believe that the U.S.A. is a power dedicated to right and not might. Why can't we say that on our coins?"

There's a special reason, too, for portraying Franklin and Edison, Kaufman says. "We should make it a tradition to have on our coins not leaders serving their terms, but the true American giants who by their immensely beneficial activity have changed the face of our nation and had a lasting effect on the world. This should set us apart from nations that regularly feature their bemedaled leaders on their coins and currency. We have a choice, and need not be imitative."

"We should use our coins to celebrate the genius of America—to showcase the greatness of this country and the people that make it up."

"Not before we run out of the truly great," he adds, "would I turn to the originators of old deals, new deals or raw deals."

Numismatists would be special beneficiaries if U.S. coins were upgraded artistically, Kaufman notes, for their collections then would be enhanced in terms of both beauty and variety. "Stamp collectors benefit from the diversity and imagination of U.S. stamp designs, so why should coin collectors not enjoy the same advantages?"

KAREN WORTH is yet another leading American sculptor with strong views on the need to redesign U.S. coins and highly developed ideas on how to go about it. Mrs. Worth, whose remarkable body of work includes more than 100 different medals for the Judaic Heritage Society, feels that our coinage could be a source of inspiration for the American people.

"We should use our coins," she says, "to celebrate the genius of America—to showcase the greatness of this country and the people that make it up." One approach, she says, might be to adopt designs which portray the American family.

"The modern family," she comments, "would be a glorious subject . . . its stability and strength and its role as the basis of society . . . people who are living as a unit and helping each other grow. The emergence of the individual would be another subject we could use. Another would be the opportunities that exist for young people, and even for the handicapped."

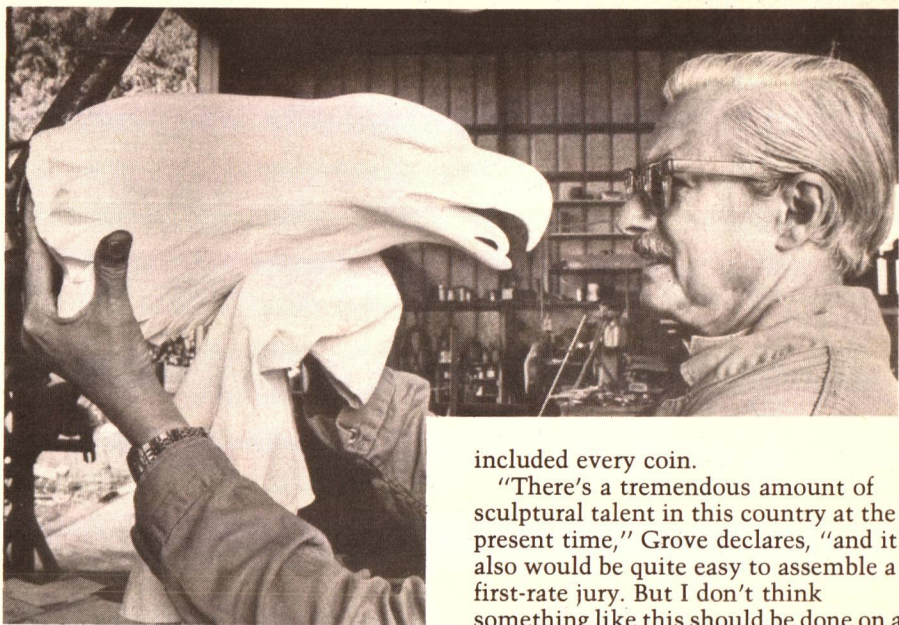

"Abstract ideas are the most potent," she says. "But the art itself should not be abstract; that kind of work is gobbledygook. It should speak to the people, for the people, about the people . . . And it should be hopeful and expressive of what is great about this country."

Sculptor Karen Worth accepting the Numismatic Art Award for Excellence in Medallion Sculpture from Ed Trautman of the Franklin Mint at the ANA's 1977 Atlanta convention.

Another approach, Mrs. Worth suggests, would be to spotlight particular occupations on one or more of our coins, and to change these designs on a regular basis to encompass a broad spectrum of occupational areas.

"There are heroes," she remarks, "in every field of endeavor, and we could emphasize that. We could honor Americans in every walk of life—not only politicians and others who have risen to prominence, but ordinary people, too; assembly line workers and farmers, for example. With some fields we could do this by featuring one representative; with others, our approach could be more general. Every productive citizen deserves such recognition, and this could be a priceless way to give the American people a sense of pride."

"Young people, in particular, have to be given heroes," she goes on. "They have to be shown that athletes and entertainers are not the only heroes in our culture. And they have to be given a sense of esthetics, too. By making our coins as beautiful and stimulating as we can, we can pique their interest, give them something they can learn from and enjoy all in one."

Any redesign of U.S. coinage would, of course, entail some knotty technical questions and problems, especially if lesser known artists were given an opportunity to participate. But prominent sculptors agree that these problems would be far from insuperable as long as federal officials were willing to seek solutions instead of setting up roadblocks, as critics feel they've done all too often in the past.

EDWARD R. GROVE, a leading sculptor and former staff engraver at the Philadelphia Mint, favors the staging of an open competition to obtain new designs and feels it would be more effective if the redesign program included every coin.

"There's a tremendous amount of sculptural talent in this country at the present time," Grove declares, "and it also would be quite easy to assemble a first-rate jury. But I don't think something like this should be done on a piecemeal basis. You would get a greater harmony if you sought the new designs all at once."

"To make things somewhat easier for the Mint," he suggests, "the contest could be run in two stages, with half the coins being changed in phase one and the other half a year or two later. That way, too, the designs that were chosen in the first stage would strongly influence the designs of the ones chosen later."

Grove would prefer a completely open contest, much like the one in 1973 in which designs were chosen for the three Bicentennial coins. In this respect he differs with some of his colleagues, who feel that better results could be gained in a limited competition involving a handful of first-rate artists specifically invited by the Treasury.

"I can see two sides to this question," Grove remarks. "On the one hand, you have a small body of highly qualified medallic sculptors in this country who have specialized in this field for a very long time. On the other hand, there's a very large group of very talented young people coming along, and based on that, I think it would be wise to keep it completely open."

"The big thing here," he says, "would be the qualifications of the jury. If your jury is really well qualified, it will weed out whatever isn't suitable." In assembling a jury, he says, the Treasury would be well advised to consult with the National Sculpture Society, the National Academy of Design and possibly one or more major museums, such as the Metropolitan Museum of Fine Arts in New York or the National Museum in Washington, D.C."

"As for subject matter," he says, "it might be well for the Mint to suggest a theme for at least one side—say, the obverse—and possibly leave the other side to the sculptor's imagination."

"Of course," he adds, "there are many legal restrictions as to what you can and can't put on a coin—mottos and eagles and the like—and it might be well for these to be reviewed and perhaps revised."

Weinman, too, would like to see U.S. coin designs chosen by means of contests. He is somewhat ambivalent, though, as to whether such competitions should be open or restricted. In judging the Bicentennial contest he was disappointed by the small number of entries submitted by first-rate artists, and came to the conclusion that many "sat it out" because of the wide-open format and, in particular, the lack of a financial guarantee. In a limited contest, he notes, such a guarantee would be possible and this would help attract a better group of artists, thus helping to ensure better results. Then again, he muses, "there could always be some unsung Michelangelo out in Broken Bow, Oklahoma, that nobody ever heard of until his design came in."

"Maybe," he suggests, "the contest might be run in two stages, with a wide-open elimination contest for the general public and a semifinal round to which known producers would be invited."

Kaufman, on the other hand, doesn't favor either kind of contest. To his way of thinking, the coinage redesign should be done by first-rate artists on a straight

"Maybe the contest might be run in two stages, with a wide-open elimination contest for the general public and a semi-final round to which known producers would be invited."

commission basis. "Artists of this caliber should not be pitted against each other," Kaufman declares. "It's not very easy to get to the top of the heap, and artists who have gone that far shouldn't have to justify themselves every time. The government should simply pick out the best people and commission them to do specific coins. Then, if the results don't meet with their approval, they can ask the artist to make any changes they want."

Kaufman and Mrs. Worth both remained on the sidelines while artists of lesser attainments were taking top honors in the Bicentennial contest. Both "sat it out," to borrow Weinman's phrase, because they were simply too busy. "The timing was bad for many top sculptors," Mrs. Worth points out. "The contest coincided with the high point commercially for Bicentennial medals, and many of us had too much work to do with those."

While still among the nation's busiest medalists, she, for one, would be eager to enter any contest that might be staged now, she quickly adds. "Unequivocally yes, I would be delighted. I like the thought that a child perhaps might pick up a coin that I designed and look at it and love it and find something—the same as opening up an encyclopedia. It would give me tremendous satisfaction."

GILROY ROBERTS, who served the Mint for years as chief sculptor-engraver, has no strong objection to the concept of a coin design competition. He was one of the judges, in fact, for the Bicentennial contest. He does dispute the thinking, though, that something is inherently wrong with the current designs. "It's pretty hard to justify taking Washington or Lincoln off our coinage. That, of course, was one reason why Kennedy ended up on the half dollar; Ben Franklin didn't rate quite as high as the other fellows on our coins. Jefferson was a pretty important president, too . . . and naturally I'm prejudiced when it comes to the Kennedy coin, since I designed the portrait. So where do you begin when you talk about changing the designs?"

"Perhaps we could obtain new reverses," suggests Roberts, "just as we did in the Bicentennial contest. Or maybe we could keep the same presidents but get new portraits for them, then maybe switch them to different denominations to emphasize the change. We might put Washington on the cent, for example, shift Lincoln to the nickel and transfer Jefferson to the quarter."

"All but the Kennedy half," he adds with a hearty laugh. "I like the coin just the way it is."

FRANK GASPARRO, the sculptor who succeeded Roberts in the number one spot at the Mint, (see accompanying article), shares his mentor's view that

FRANK GASPARRO:

The curtain came down on a long and distinguished career on January 16, 1981, when Frank Gasparro retired as chief sculptor-engraver for the United States Mint. Gasparro had been with the Mint for nearly four decades, including 16 years as chief engraver. And during that time, he had played a role in designing no fewer than four different regular-issue coins. Indeed, he had a hand in every new U.S. coin design for more than 20 years, including the special designs for the three Bicentennial coins. While the latter were prepared by artists outside the Mint, Gasparro had to adapt them before they could be used in production.

Gasparro's coinage breakthrough came on the Lincoln cent, when his Lincoln Memorial design was chosen from among nearly two dozen in-house entries in a limited competition to update the reverse of the coin. That was in 1959, the 150th anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birth and the 50th anniversary of the birth of the Lincoln cent. It was a fitting debut, for Gasparro himself had been born in the very same month as this much-loved coin. His birth, on August 26, 1909, followed the introduction of the Lincoln cent by only 24 days.

His second coinage effort was the Kennedy half dollar, and here again his work appeared only on the "flip side" of the coin. He designed the presidential seal that was used on the coin's reverse, while Gilroy Roberts, then chief engraver, fashioned the Kennedy portrait for the obverse.

In 1971, Gasparro got his first two-sided "canvas" with the introduction of the Eisenhower dollar, a coin he designed in full. That proved to be a short-lived issue, lasting just through 1978. But the coin that replaced it, the Susan B. Anthony dollar, also bore Gasparro's distinctive imprint on both sides.

The closing months of Gasparro's long Mint career were clouded somewhat by the ongoing controversy concerning public resistance to use of the Anthony dollar. Objections to the coin have centered on its size, rather than the design, but nonetheless Gasparro felt the affronts in a personal way and has felt compelled to come to the coin's defense. He came to be involved so personally, in fact, as champion of the Anthony dollar that he views the project now as his "top achievement."

"It is uppermost in my mind," he says, "because it was the most trying experience. Those things that come easy, you just brush off and say, 'Well, I did that one.' But the Susan B. Anthony dollar was my most trying challenge, and I would like to see it saved."

"I honestly feel the coin can be saved if the color is changed," he adds. "If that is done, people will be able to spot it at once and all the confusion will end."

A proposal to change the "mini"-dollar's color has been under consideration for a number of months at the Mint. The change would be accomplished by switching to a new alloy of copper, aluminum and silicon which would give the coin a brassy yellow hue. It is thought that this would overcome the principal objection to the present dollar coin that its similar size and not-too-dissimilar appearance is easily confused with the quarter.

The soft-spoken, self-effacing Gasparro joined the Mint staff as a $2,300-a-year junior engraver in December 1942. He was promoted to the post of assistant chief sculptor-engraver in April 1962 and succeeded Roberts as chief on February 23, 1965.

Designing U.S. coins was just one of many responsibilities he carried out while at the Mint. He also prepared designs for scores of medals, including the nation's official Bicentennial medal and the Mint presidential medals for every chief executive from Lyndon B. Johnson to Jimmy Carter. One of his greatest successes in this area was the national medal for actor John Wayne, authorized by Congress and issued by the Mint in 1979. Sales of that piece have exceeded $1 million, making it the all-time best-seller in the Mint medal series. While this, of course, is attributable primarily to Mr. Wayne's enormous popularity, the medal's design has won near-unanimous praise.

Gasparro was the 10th man to hold the title of chief sculptor-engraver. While the public at large knows little or nothing of this government post, those who hold it can, by the nature of the their work, often have an impact on the lives of all their countrymen.

All 10 chief engravers have designed at least one regular-issue coin, and most have had a chance to do much more. James B. Longacre, for example, designed no fewer than eight different U.S. coins, including the Indian Head cent, the two-cent piece and the Liberty Head gold coins. The record for longevity in the post was established by Charles Barber, who held it for more than 37 years between 1879 and 1917.

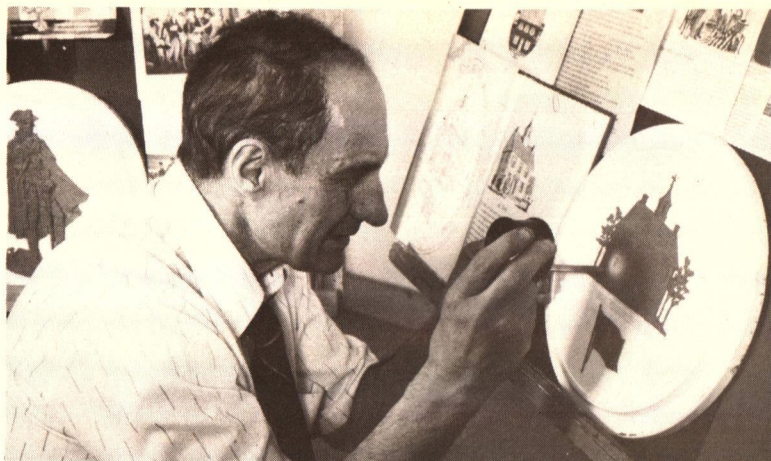

Upon retirement Gasparro's successor will be named by President Reagan and confirmed by the U.S. Senate. The functions of chief engraver are being carried out on a temporary basis by Sherl J. Winter, who was one of Gasparro's assistants. Winter has designed or helped design a number of Mint medals, including a 1972 piece issued to commemorate the 175th anniversary of the launching of the U.S. frigate Constellation.

According to Gasparro, the timing of his departure was related only incidentally to the change of administrations in Washington. He has, after all, served under U.S. Presidents of both political parties. "I simply felt I'd been there long enough. I've done my duty, I've given enough of myself, and now it's time for someone else to step in and carry on the work."

Gasparro is 71, and other men his age might be ready to settle back in a rocking chair now. But this, he insists, is far from the end of his sculpting career. After pausing to catch his breath and take his first real vacation in 38 years, he plans to pick up his tools again and look for some private commissions.

"I feel that there are new horizons for me to approach," he exclaims. "I won't stop; I can't stop. This is a change of direction, not the end."

And so, after nearly twoscore years, Frank Gasparro is gone from his workbench at the Mint. But while he himself is no longer there, the coins he created continue to roll off the presses, perpetuating a legacy that will live far beyond the present day. It will live as long as collectors save those coins.

FRANK GASPARRO

the current coinage lineup is all but untouchable. "It would be almost sacrilegious to knock off these national leaders," he exclaims. "Who would you replace them with? Who could take the place of Washington or Lincoln? You might change the quarter by using the design Laura Gardin Fraser did in 1932; I've always admired the job she did on that and I'd like to see it used. But other than that, what would you do any differently? I've lived too much with all these coins to want to see them changed; I have too much loyalty . . . not to the coins themselves, but rather to the patriotic gesture they represent."

Gasparro, who designed all or part of four different U.S. coins—the Lincoln Memorial reverse of the Lincoln cent, the reverse of the Kennedy half dollar and both sides of the Eisenhower and Anthony dollars—is, understandably, less than enthusiastic at the prospect of a major coin design change. He is even more distressed, though, at the thought of all the headaches that wholesale coinage changes would cause for the engravers at the Mint.

"People outside the Mint don't understand the technical problems," he says. "Take those three Bicentennial coin designs, for example. I had to revamp every one of them, especially the half dollar and dollar, in order to make them suitable for production. Barber had the same kind of problem with the two Saint-Gaudens gold coins."

"I've lived too much with all these coins to want to see them changed. I have too much loyalty . . . not to the coins themselves, but rather to the patriotic gesture they represent."

"Perhaps the solution would be to start issuing commemorative coins again," the sculptor says. "That way, we'd have a place for some fresh new designs and we wouldn't have to disturb our regular coins."

Gasparro retired from the Mint on January 16, 1981, after a career spanning more than 38 years; he joined the staff as a junior engraver in December 1942. Only two other chief engravers in the history of the Mint, Charles E. Barber and George T. Morgan, worked for the bureau as long. The sameness of U.S. coinage is underscored by the fact that most of the coins being made when Gasparro started are still in production today.

Though he has been the ultimate insider, Gasparro is quick to praise the work outsiders did on some of the nation's coins, notably the two Saint-Gaudens gold coins and the Buffalo nickel. While he favors

"The golden age of American sculpture has passed. Sculptors today are not attuned to the fine arts and the Greek tradition . . . We have to recapture that golden age, and it may yet come about with the young people of today."

retention of the current designs, he doesn't rule out an eventual shift from the portrait gallery look of the present coins to a freer, less inhibited, and hopefully more artistic, approach.

"I'm not opposed to change," he remarks. "I simply feel that this is not the time for it, at least on our regular coins. We need the sense of patriotism we get from the national leaders on our coins."

Gasparro believes that artistically, too, the time may not be ripe for revamping U.S. coins. "The golden age of American sculpture has passed. Sculptors today are not attuned to the fine arts and the Greek tradition the way the greats like Saint-Gaudens were, back in the early 1900s. Today, the emphasis is on realism, and even abstract realism. There is no more beauty for the sake of beauty; that world has passed. Politics has entered the picture, too; the senators get together and dictate what a coin should be today.

"I do feel we've got to change eventually," he adds. "We have to be stronger and freer in our conception of coinage and design. We have to recapture that golden age, and it may yet come about with the young people of today."

"We are in an opportune position to make our coinage the greatest in the world. And I feel it in my bones that this can and will happen some day."

U.S. COIN DESIGN: FROM THE EYES OF CHILDREN

What I think would look good on the back of a quarter.

I think that a lake with mountains in the background and have an eagle on top of the highest peak of the mountains.

I've heard that in 1976 there going to change the the backs of the quarter and half-dollar. Well, I have an ideal, we might put the United States Flag with the words "In god we trust" on the Love thy neighbor on the bottom for the quarter

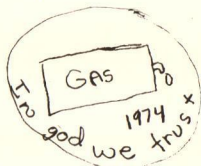

Stimulated by the pending redesign of several American coins to commemorate the nation's Bicentennial, this short but insightful article by Nancy Rochette appeared in the March 1974 issue of The Numismatist.

During a creative writing program at the Pine Valley Elementary School, Colorado Springs, Colorado, children in grades one through six in the early 1970s were asked for their ideas concerning design changes on the 1976 dollar, half dollar and quarter. Their responses reflect imagination and sincerity and burst with images and ideas that represent a refreshing American idealism and a true artistic patriotism. Although these suggestions were made more than seven years ago their freshness endures. The trust apparent behind the novelty of these designs perhaps could serve as an inspiration for a redesign of U.S. coinage; not only do these children see coinage as a vehicle for American art, they also indicate a welcome confidence in the American people and the nation's economy.

As far as I know there is an energy crisis, so there is my idea. I think that we should have a gas can on its side with a drop coming out.

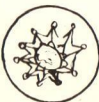

I think that the quarter should have picture of a lady this time because every other quarter has either a bird or a man so a woman may be a change from the man and eagle

I think that a picture of the statue of Liberty's hand. One one that is holding the torch

Or else a ring of people all different races.

If they change the back of a quarter from an eagle to something else it would be very interesting if they could put an owl on it.

I would like to see an owl on the back of a quarter because it wouldn't change that much from the eagle. It would represent wisdom.

I would put a dinosaur on the back because they have been around a long time and so have coins so I think I would put a dinosaur that's my pnyone

What should go on the back of a quarter

I think that the back of the quarter should have a picture of the United States on it. (Check those)

I know that you might not like it but I think that you will.

We should "put," Smile, God loves you. Or up could put, "Spend Me Wisely," or "Take it or Leave It, America."

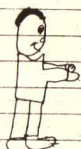

What should your put on the back of the coin.

You should put a Flag the U.S. Flag. Because it stood up in the war.

I would like a picture of John F. Kennedy is good cus he was drea best president of all of them

John F. Kennedy

I would put how much it is worth.

■ The late and famed Will Rogers once avowed that "All I know is just what I read in the papers." Of course that was some time ago when "the papers" were a bit more careful about what they presented to their readers. The following briefs are from my recent newspaper scanning. (I really don't "read" the papers except for few a selected comic strips.)

AP reported what Secretary of the Air Force Hans Mark had to say about a recent test of the laser missile killer. It's an awesome weapon, he divulged, upon which "the Air Force so far has approximately spent $1 billion . . ." If it approximately spent one billion, aren't we entitled to know what else it approximately did?

Still in the military realm, I learned of an achievement where "less is liked." That's hard to imagine in this age of "bigger is better," even when the bigger (number of dollars) is usually due to inflation. In any case, NORAD spokeswoman Kay Comier divulged the fact that the 4,554 manmade objects circling the earth at the end of 1979 declined to 4,419 at the 1980 year end. A drop of only about 3 percent, but nonetheless less!

In its editorial column, "The Sun's View," one of our newspapers examined the government's six year old anti-trust suit against giant AT&T. The company reportedly spent more than $250 million in its defense—paid for, we are reminded, by the phone company's customers (you and me). What was not reported was the amount of taxpayers' (yours and mine) money spent on this suit by the Department of Justice; nor that we, the taxpayers, had no say-so in the validity of the action and expenditures. Didn't our forefathers fight a war against taxation without representation?

My last "brief" for this time relates to an AP interview with one of the country's leading promoters on improving the quality and availability of our food supply. We are all aware of the rising cost of food, usually blamed on the greed of growers and producers, processors, transporters, storekeepers and any of the dozens of others involved. By the way, these people eat food and complain about rising costs, too. Nevertheless, if we have the wherewithal for food, we have plenty to eat.

glenn b. smedley

But consider this quotation from the AP article: "Forty-five percent of all the food consumed in Massachusetts is from California. Well, if the rate at which land in California is being converted to housing and other things, and if the rate of population growth remains the same, then nine years hence California will not have any more food to export. What are they going to do in Massachusetts?" And, we should add, in the other states that get a lot of their food from the Golden State.

■ Alice Widener, columnist for the Colorado Springs Gazette-Telegraph, recently quoted a very pertinent dictum from Dr. James C. Dolley, Professor of Finance, University of Texas. Dr. Dolley wrote: "The dollar (U.S.) serves two major purposes: it is a medium of exchange without which business could not function, and it serves as a store of value. The store of value depends entirely on the public expectation as to the future value of the dollar. If that expectation is nil, then the value of the dollar is nil and the economy collapses for want of a medium of exchange.

"It is not the national economy which supports the value of the dollar; it is public confidence in the future value of the dollar which supports the economy.

"It is sad indeed to see the strongest nation which has been produced in world history now struggling desperately to keep its head above water, all because of the political philosophy inaugurated in 1933 of 'spend and spend and elect and elect.' The great value and protection to a nation of a gold standard lies in its automatic restraint on the spending of public funds by politicians."

"Amen."

Among the many innovations of the last generation that appeared from nowhere and quickly became an integral part of twentieth century lifestyles is the ubiquitous credit card. The designs and logos of some of the more common cards are signs no less recognized in the commercial landscape than those of fast food chains and brand name products. Collectors with an eye to the future and a bit of imagination see these bits of plastic as a new numismatic specialty, one with enough potential, perhaps, to eventually rival some of today's collecting favorites.

The direct connection of plastic money to consumer purchases is reminiscent of the coins and tokens issued for specific transactions decades ago. For example, a Green River Whiskey token, once good for the purchase of a drink of that particular brand, was also good for advertising. Unfortunately for the issuer, it had the drawback of going out of circulation as soon as its owner decided that a shot of whiskey was better to have than the large-cent size copper. The advertising and consumer credit purposes of this and similar issues were thus quite limited.

One-hundred years after the commercial heyday of the token, someone thought of a credit token in card form that the holder could use again and again. The idea of personalizing the token with the bearer's name and an identification number, recording the information, and collecting payment later was a breakthrough that made the plastic money system of short term credit possible. The idea evolved from the "dog tag" IDs that were produced in such large quantities during World War II.

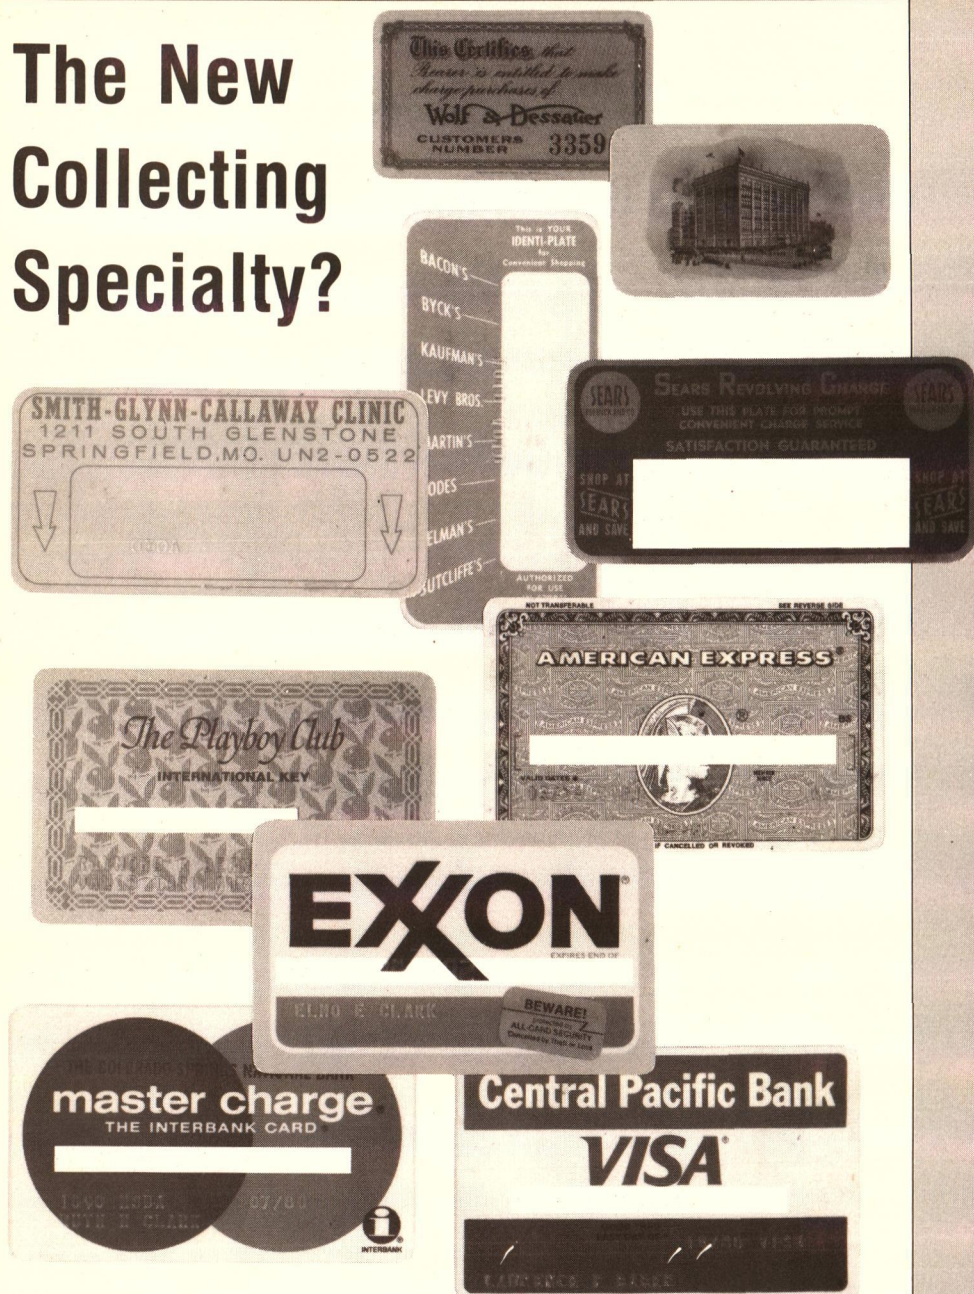

PLASTIC MONEY

Walter A. Dinteman

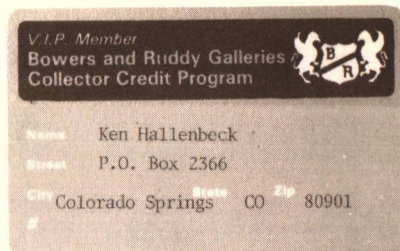

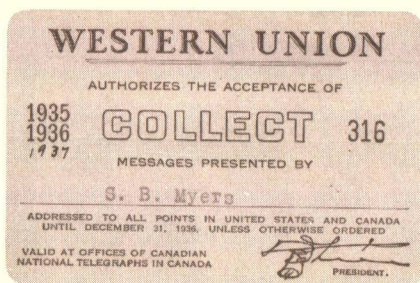

The first credit card in the form we recognize today that was honored by more than one merchant was issued in 1950 by Diners Club. Membership in the club was a necessary requirement for the privilege of possessing one of these cards; annual dues and prompt payment of monthly statements were necessary to maintain membership in good standing. The success of this unique commercial credit venture prompted others to enter the field, and competition developed quickly and keenly. Credit card companies offered retail stores and restaurants a larger clientele and increased business by extending credit to their customers. The credit card companies, in turn, profited by exacting from merchants a percentage of all sales. Large stores found that, by issuing their own cards, they could save the card company fee and keep those charges for themselves. However, store cards have the disadvantage of being valid only at the issuing business.

To fill the gap in consumer needs for a universally useful credit card available to consumers without special membership requirements or additional fees, the huge and innovative Bank of America issued the first Bank Americard (now VISA) in 1958. Since the 1950s, travel cards, oil company cards, check cashing cards issued by supermarkets, and cards for automated banking have fattened the wallets of Americans. The latter two types of cards, although not intended for credit purchasing, are considered credit cards because they validate the credit that the holder has established with the issuer.

With such rapid proliferation of plastic money, it was inevitable that someone would eventually become interested in credit cards as collectibles. This new specialty, "plastinumismatics," or perhaps "numisplastics," may horrify the collector of "real money" in much the same manner that collecting new medals manufactures only for collectors horrifies many medal specialists. On the other hand, one might remember that the U.S. Mint has been in the direct service of collectors since its inception. For those who regard collecting recent issues of coins a trifle artificial, if not simply contributing to Federal greed, the collecting of credit cards may offer something of a refreshing diversion.

Twenty short years ago the average collector could start, if not complete, a collection of pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters, halves and silver dollars from circulation. Only a few key dates were not available from change in daily transactions or from marathon sorting sessions on a rainy day. Many veteran readers of The Numismatist undoubtedly recall the special thrill of finding a gem in circulation. As a youth, this author's little paper route produced a 1909 VDB, a 1921-D dime, and filled up most of the contemporary Whitman books. In 1962 one could go to almost any bank and if the bankers weren't too busy and if they knew your grand-daddy, and if you looked sincere and were fifteen years old, they would let you into the vault to sort through bags full of silver dollars. Even at face value I could only afford to sort out the CCs and Os and take only those extra-fine or bag marked uncirculated ones. That sort of fun just isn't available in our hobby today. An occasional find is still possible, but that was once an occurrence just uncommon enough to make it thrilling for every collector.

A good deal of the old-fashioned excitement of collecting awaits the collector of credit cards. Furthermore, a collection can be started for free. A substantial number of presently valid cards can be assembled simply by writing to issuing companies. Once a basic collection of cards is accumulated the plastinumismastist is ready to begin the next stage of collecting; acquiring obsolete cards. Obsolete cards are not available from the issuing firm, obviously, so one must locate cards from other card holders. The problem here, of course, is scarcity. Probably 95 percent of all obsolete or invalid cards have been destroyed by their owners. Destruction of old cards is recommended by the firms who issue the cards and the vast majority of card holders comply.

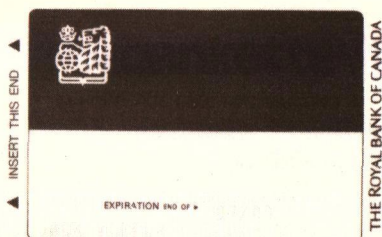

An interesting aspect of credit card collecting is that like coins and stamps, their authenticity and control is carefully protected. One is impressed with the regularity in size and shape of most cards. Actually there are two major types. The larger of the two, which is the size of a Master Card or oil company card (2-1/8" x 3-3/8"), is probably manufactured by Rand McNally, Incorporated, at its secret plant reported to be somewhere in Maryland. Security at that plant is reputed to make Ft. Knox look like a dime store. That may be an exaggeration, but one only has to contemplate the fact that there are one hundred forty million VISA card holders. Not only do their accounts have to be protected from counterfeits, but so do the hundreds of thousands of firms that honor those cards. Collecting credit cards is discouraged by the issuing companies, and the exchange or transfer of cards is forbidden by the terms (contract) of issue. In somewhat the same way as U.S. gold collections of the past fifty years have been regulated, some legal obstacles may be erected to further discourage collections of credit cards. However, there is a solution to this problem.

Current or recently valid cards should not be exchanged, of course, and not just because the law or a card issuer prohibits such a transaction. No one wants to be the victim of fraudulent use of a credit card. However, some alternatives to exchanging or transferring valid cards are permissible. One is to collect only cards in one's own name. That can be fun, but inevitably the collector will want to obtain an old, obsolete card. If a card is totally obsolete, for example an Esso oil card, misuse of the card is not possible since the accepting firm no longer exists with that name. Difficulties can arise, however, if the collector wishes to sell or obtain an old Bank Americard, the predecessor of today's VISA card. Some Bank Americards are still valid because the account numbers did not change when the card was renamed. To play it safe and to play by the rules of the issuing company, collectors should make certain that potentially valid cards are "depersonalized." This may be done by carefully scraping off the raised lettering; by using an ether-based glue to dissolve the account number and name; by melting the raised portions with a pin-point butane torch, or by simply punching holes in the name and account number. Care should be taken not to remove or damage the date that appears on most cards. With a little care and practice these methods can be used without destroying the card. Of course, one must consider that depersonalizing a card will lower its value in somewhat the same way that cancelled stamps or worn coins are worth less than their mint state counterparts. For this reason most collectors may stick to current cards of personal ownership or very old cards with no legal validity.

Foreign credit cards.

Because economic conditions today are significantly different from those of the 1960s when even unrequested credit cards were issued by the thousands, most card issuing companies have radically changed their credit card practices. Many bank cards must be purchased (rented?) for $12 per year or more. Most "club" cards are now only available for an annual cost of $30 or more. In the last few years several firms, including many oil companies, severely restricted the number of new cards issued. These factors will contribute to the growing scarcity of plastic money. While no one knows how many cards are available to collectors, one can make an educated guess as to the relative scarcity of certain cards. Until there are hundreds and thousands of credit card collectors exchanging cards no one can say for certain what they are worth as collectibles. Like anything, a card is worth what someone is willing to pay for it.

The American Express Gold Card.

These cards identify the carrier's good standing in a membership organization.

Until the time that the free market makes prices of collectible credit cards "real," a tentative base price system can be established based on common sense and the knowledge of relative scarcity. For example, there are ten times as many VISA cards presently in circulation as there are American Express cards. Since the latter is purchased, it is relatively expensive to acquire simply for the purpose of adding it to a collection. An American Express Gold Card, generally issued only to business clients with substantial income and practically unlimited credit, is more difficult to acquire than the more common green American Express issue. The relatively rare cards form the 'key' to an extensive collection. An original Diners Club card would be the 1909-S VDE cent of a superb collection. Today's pioneer collectors anticipate a collection of rare, old credit cards being auctioned at Southeby's for a million dollars within this century!

The first publication for credit card enthusiasts, The 1980 Credit Card Catalog, is now available. Although not an exhaustive list of the thousands of cards that collectors can choose from, it is a sound beginning and lists scores of cards in six representative categories and includes advertising and information for the novice collector. Information necessary for ordering the catalog can be obtained by writing the author, 3500 Donnigale Ave., Durham, N.C., 27705. A newsletter is being considered that would be a vehicle for collectors to exchange cards and information. It seems that only thirty years after the birth of the multi-purpose credit card a new collecting specialty has been born which will leave its own mark on the many faceted hobby of numismatics.

WALTER ANTHONY DITEMAN has been a collector of coins since 1954 when he was nine years old. He is an active collector of just about anything that he has more than two of, and most recently added bottle openers, button hooks and credit cards to his list of favored collectibles.

Ephraim Brasher as Mint Assayer and the Lima-Style Doubloon

Richard A. Bagg, LM 1857 and Q. David Bowers, LM 336

"Brasher's reputation for probity was unquestioned; it was immediately recognized that his initials on a gold coin were a guarantee of its purity."

DECATUR, 1938

Of all the American coin issues that have caught the fancy of collectors, perhaps the most famous is the 1787 gold doubloon issued by Ephraim Brasher, New York goldsmith, silversmith and jeweler. In the few instances that specimens have appeared in auctions during the past century, great acclaim and publicity have been given them. Ironically, none had been offered at public auction for 57 years until 1979 when two specimens were offered for public competition. The Brasher Doubloon is reputed to be the single most desirable gold coin in the world as evidenced by its auction record of $725,000.

The 1787 doubloons bear Brasher's surname in full, although they have no mark of value. This was not an unusual characteristic for gold coins of the period, as the first gold coins produced at the United States Mint bore no mark of value either. Numerous foreign gold coins then in circulation had the same characteristic, so value was determined by metallic purity and weight. Since so many circulating gold coins were counterfeit, it was considered unwise to accept a coin until it was pronounced genuine.

Although there is some controversy on the subject, it is generally believed that Brasher was called upon to assay, test and otherwise evaluate many of these foreign gold coins. He would then counterstamp those pieces he deemed to be genuine with his initials, EB, in an oval, as a guarantee.

Brasher's patronage by the President of the United States, George Washington, and other prominent people such as George Clinton suggests that his reputation must have been unsurpassed at the time. Those in the channels of commerce would have every reason to believe that gold coins bearing his name would be accepted as genuine.

Brasher as Mint Assayer

That Brasher was an assayer for the U.S. Mint is based in part on information from the American State Papers. A $27 Treasury warrant was made out:

"in favor of John Shield, assignee of Ephraim Brasher; being for assays made by said Brasher, in the year 1792, for the Mint, on sundry coins of gold and silver, pursuant to instructions from the then Secretary of the Treasury."¹

This contradicts an assertion that Brasher was not employed by the Mint because he was not paid for his services.²

Walter Breen cites *The American Journal of Numismatics*³ to the effect that Brasher "was employed by the authorities of the United States Mint, in 1792, to make assays."⁴ The fact that various foreign gold coins exist with the EB counterstamp provides further evidence that Brasher assayed coins for the U.S. Mint.⁵

"It is not unlikely that the gold coins now known which show the counterstamp of EB, were some of the coins which Brasher assayed and stamped at the insistence of the Secretary of the Treasury."⁶

One of the earliest descriptions of a Brasher counterstamped coin was mentioned by Lyman H. Low in 1891.⁷ Several coins with the EB counterstamp were auctioned in the early part of the 20th century. A Half Joe of Portugal appeared in the Zabriskie sale,⁸ and several pieces were auctioned at the Ten Eyck sale—two of which were purchased by John Work Garrett and formed part of the Johns Hopkins University Collection.⁹ Another specimen with the EB counterstamp, a 1749 guinea of George III, was pictured by Howland Wood¹⁰ and also was included in the Garrett Collection. Wood advanced the theory that Brasher was relied upon to certify the legitimacy of certain coins. Waldo C. Newcomer owned a Portuguese Half Joe with an EB counterstamp which he loaned to the ANS in 1914 for their display of U.S. and Colonial coins.¹¹

Portuguese Half Joe

Brasher Doubloon

The Lima-Style Doubloon

"Paris Collection" specimen

Another variation of a coin with the EB counterstamp was "supposedly" discovered in 1915 by Newcomer. The "so-called" Lima-style doubloon not only has the initials EB but also has Brasher's name on the coin. Although it was believed that the coin was first brought to the attention of numismatists in 1915,¹² Lyman H. Low saw one as part of the "Paris Collection" sold by Scott in 1894. Its auction description follows:

"813. 1742 Lima, Peru, Gold 8 Escudos or Doubloon. L - .8.-V/P.-.V.-A/7-.4.-2 (which we read, Lima, 8 Escudos Value (Valor). Plus ultra Anno 1742) through two pillars in sea. Below, BRASHER. Rev., Cross, with arms of Castile and Leon alternating in angles. Counterstamped E.B. in small oval on center of cross, same as on Ephraim Brasher's N.Y. Doubloon of 1787. Circle on rev. (Weight, 408 grains) Exceedingly rare Size 27."¹³

B. Max Mehl was therefore "mistaken" in stating that the Ten Eyck specimen was the first to be auctioned in 1922. That the "Paris Collection" coin and Ten Eyck's are the same is identifiable from the auction descriptions. Ten Eyck's specimen had a "few light, hardly noticeable scratches" while the "Paris" coin had "small scratches on rev." John Work

Garrett purchased the Ten Eyck specimen for $250,¹⁴ and later traded this specimen to Mehl for $500 so that he could purchase the Newcomer coin, the finest specimen for $1,500.¹⁵ The Newcomer/Garrett specimen was pictured in another article published in 1915¹⁶ and it is noticeably finer than the specimen pictured in the Ten Eyck sale catalogue.¹⁹

In the "discovery article" from the ANS Proceedings, it was stated:

"that the whole coin design was entirely fabricated outside of any authorized Spanish Mint, and the stamp of BRASHER N.Y. must have appeared in the original die, although the counterstamp EB was added after the piece was struck."¹⁸

Was the coin produced as a souvenir?¹⁹ Breen argues that:

"the seemingly anonymous Lima doubloons with their cabalistic initials must have appeared as a logical type for a private issue that would both match something already in circulation and not offend patriotic sensibilities. Brasher's plainly readable signature of the coins would be an additional safeguard for anyone questioning the pieces . . ."²⁰

The pedigree of the two known pieces are as follows:

1. The "Paris Collection" specimen, the "true" discovery piece, was sold at auction in 1894 into the collection of James Ten Eyck of Albany, N.Y. and was purchased by John Work Garrett. Subsequently, it was traded by Garrett to B. Max Mehl when Garrett was offered the finest specimen. Mehl then sold it to Col. E.H.R. Green. Later, it was acquired by Art Kagin.²¹

2. The finer of the two specimens is the Waldo C. Newcomer piece. This coin was acquired by B. Max Mehl who handled the sale of Newcomer's collection and then was acquired by John Work Garrett for $1,500, against $500 for the lesser piece.²²

22. The Lima-style doubloon has been the subject of discussion and debate among experts. One dealer in particular has questioned the issue and expressed the opinion that it might be a 19th century fantasy production. The staff at Bowers and Ruddy Galleries has made a detailed study of the piece and believes that the 1742-dated Lima-style is contemporaneous with the known 1787 Brasher issues. That is, while the piece was not minted in 1742, it was not made as a fantasy during the late 19th century either. Spectographic and other analyses showed conclusively that the metallic composition of the 1742-dated Lima-Style Brasher Doubloon, struck piece, was virtually identical to that of the 1787 issue. Unless specific documentation surfaces at a later date pieces will always be subject to question.

U.S. Postal Notes,

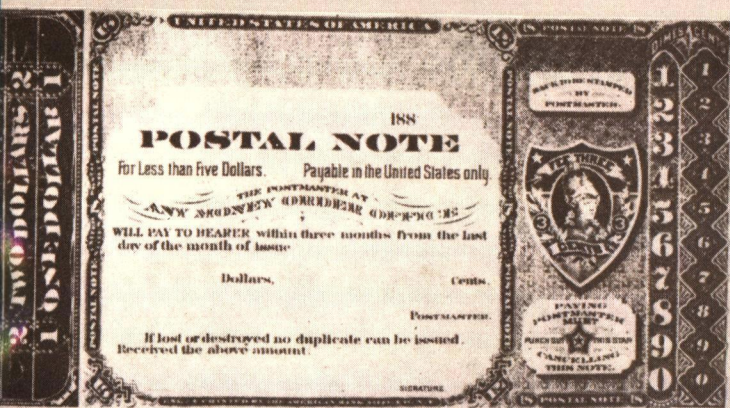

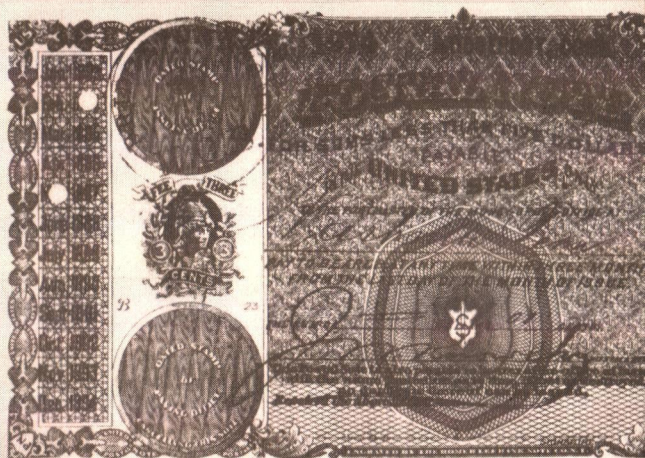

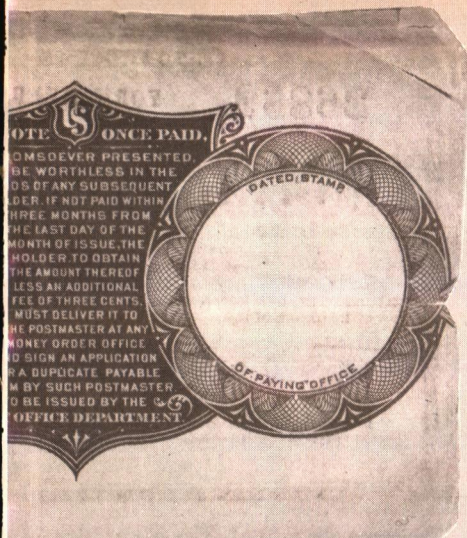

Figure 1

AN AMERICAN COUNTRY POST OFFICE

1883-1894

FROM THE PAINTING BY T.W. WOOD, N.A.

Mike Carter, ANA 82392

Little attention has been paid by the collector to the various postal notes issued from 1883 to 1894. Some collectors may argue that these notes should not be placed in the same class as U.S. circulating currency issues. Others, however, believe that these notes are as much a part of our currency as the refunding certificates of 1879, and that they are closely related to the postage and fractional currency issues. Whether or not the notes are a currency issue, the varieties are potentially of great interest to the paper collecting fraternity.

These notes, issued by post office branches between September 1883 and June 1894, could be purchased in varying amounts for a fee of 3¢ and were valid for payments from 1¢ to

$5. In effect, they were the predecessors of our present day money orders.

Five basic designs were printed by three different bank note companies. The obverses of all notes were printed with black ink on pale grey paper with the exception of the first issue which was black and brown on yellow. The obverse of each note was also imprinted with a serial number in red and the name of the issuing post office in black. The reverses of all notes were printed in blue.

The first issue is the only one that differs in design from the other four and was probably in service from September 1883 until June 1884.

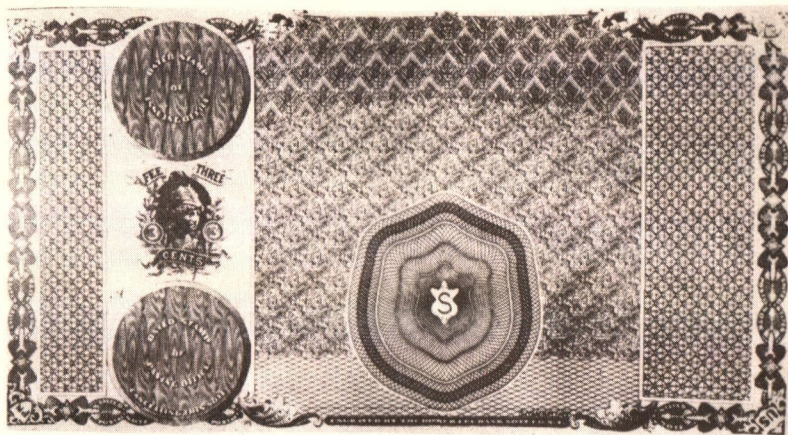

Figure 5

These notes were printed by the Homer Lee Bank Note Company of New York and are of much more ornate design than the four later issues (Figure 1).

The other four notes are of the same basic design with only a slight variation in wording on the obverse. Figure 2 was probably in service from

July 1884 to January 1887 and Figure 3 from January 1887 to September 1887. Both Figures 2 and 3 were printed by the Homer Lee Bank Note Company. Figure 4, which was in service from September 1887 to September 1891, was printed by the American Bank Note Company. Thomas F. Morris, Chief of Design at

Another design for the 1883 U.S. Postal Note by Thomas F. Morris

American Bank Note in the early months of 1887, made slight changes on this series in the note's background wording and design, layout, and ornate trim. Figure 5, printed by Dunlap and Clarke of Philadelphia, was in service from September 1891 until June 1894.

It is interesting to note that the designs were created and printed by three different bank note companies. During the early years of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing it was not uncommon for the department to contract out printing jobs to private bank note companies; the Bureau alone being unable to fulfill all of the government's printing requirements. The banknotes are unusual, however, because they were contracted out to three separate companies.

Establishing current collector's prices for the notes is difficult because sale and trade activity is as yet quite limited. Roughly, prices should fall in the following ranges for notes in good condition: Figure 1-$85, Figure 2-$95, Figure 3-$190 (this note is quite rare, less than 6 are known), Figure 4-$95, and Figure 5-$65.

Postal notes are interesting pieces of paper Americana and deserve more attention than has been given them. In addition to collecting the different types, there are myriads of different denominations from 1¢ to $5 and hundreds of different issuing post office branches. Perhaps the best place to locate postal notes is from a stamp dealer. The philatelic community has long been aware of the collectibility of postal notes but has never paid serious attention to them because there is so little information available about the issues and because the notes are not actually philatelic. That, fellow paper money collectors, leaves the notes to us.

NUMISMATIC NOSTALGIA

151. Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, D. C.

Exterior view of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, D.C., circa 1904 (the date of most of these views).

Many collecting specialties have grown out of the colorful events that made American history in the first decade of the 20th century, among which is postcard collecting. The postcard craze which took the country by storm at the turn of the century had penny postcards being printed and posted by the millions. Stores and shops featuring the rectangular pieces of printed cardboard opened in nearly every American city. Comics, photographic views, political messages, sentiments, holiday remembrances, and 101 other subjects could be chosen by the prospective buyer.

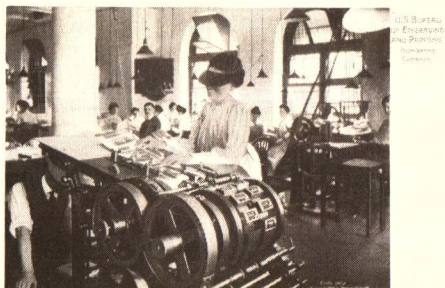

Fortunately for numismatists, the United States Mints and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing were popular subjects for postcard photographers. (For postcard views of the U.S. Mint, see Numismatic Nostalgia, The Numis-

Tuck postcard showing the Press Room. The reverse inscription reads: "The Press Room at the governmental Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington, where are printed all of United States postage stamps and currency, is known as the 'beehive' because it is such a hive of activity. In the one large room are upward of 500 hand presses, each manned by a plate printer, who is aided by a woman assistant. Thousands of dollars of money are printed every minute."

A closer view in the Press Room shows workers inking four-subject plates with hand rollers.

Another card in the Tuck series bears the following inscription: "Numbering Currency. Undoubtedly the most wonderful machine at the Bureau of Engraving is a remarkable press invented and constructed by Americans, which prints the red serial numbers found at either end of every piece of our paper money. This machine, which is the only one of the kind in the world, sets its own type and automatically prints the numbers in succession from 1 to 1,000,000,000."

The next card, also issued by Tuck, is imprinted on the back with the following: "Examining newly made money. One of the important steps in the creation of paper money is the examination of the newly made currency. The work is performed by women experts and the discovery of the slightest blur or other defect results in entire sheets of bank notes being discarded. The examiners turn over the sheets of money faster than the eye can follow the movements of their fingers."

matist, February 1981). Raphael Tuck & Sons, British postcard publishers who achieved international acclaim, produced an illustrious set of six different cards featuring the Bureau, five of which pertain to currency production and one that pertains to postage stamps. Striving to educate, Tuck provided informative commentary on the back of each card. Several other cards featuring the Bureau were produced by a variety of lesser-known issuers.

The collection of postcards illustrated here tells the story of our nation's currency production as seen at the turn of the century.

U. S. BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING. Counting and packing currency for shipment.

This Tuck postcard contains an inscription which present-day currency collectors will find quite informative. Certainly it explains the counting smudges found on certain notes and also the starching which is sometimes encountered. (Although some of this is done by modern-day improvers as well!) "Counting and packing currency for shipment. In the process of creation, our currency is counted 54 different times, so that eventually it loses all of its crispness. It is therefore treated to a bath of alum to restore the freshness characteristic of new money, and the sheets, each containing four bills of the same denomination, are packed and sent to the Treasury for the affixing of the seal which makes them Legal Tender."

After the money was counted and packed it was apt to be sent to a storage vault such as this. The card bears the notation: "Vault where millions of money (sic) are stored. One of the greatest storage places of wealth in America is this vault, where are held in reserve millions upon millions of dollars in new currency and postage stamps, waiting to be served out as needed to the people of the country. The vault is fitted with the latest improved time locks and cannot be opened save in the presence of three different officials of the Treasury Department."

Within the vault was apt to be seen something like the motif of this card: two gentlemen standing amidst bundles, each containing 4,000 $5 silver certificates. Considering that this picture was taken in 1904, chances are excellent that they were either of the Educational type or of the Chief Onepapa style! Also shown are bundles of thousands of $5,000 and $10,000 gold certificates!

Currency was hauled from the Treasury by this horse drawn currency wagon. At the rear several gentlemen are shown pushing a crate of money up a plank.

After serving a useful life in circulation, probably from one to three years, the typical note was then so worn that it was returned to the Treasury for redemption. In this view a gentleman is shown slicing bundles of $2 notes in half. His thumb seems to be directly under the cutting blade...one hopes that after posing for this picture he paid more attention to what he was doing when he went back to work!

The end . . . cut-up worn currency was put into the macerator where it was steamed under pressure, resulting in papier maché. Novelties—busts of Lincoln, miniature Washington Monuments, and even post-cards were made by various souvenir companies that purchased the macerated currency.

Newly Discovered 1889 Official Inaugural Committee Reception Badge

Inaugural medals and memorabilia, generally a favored numismatic specialty of only a select group of collectors, enter the limelight once each four years as part of the grand finale of an American presidential election. President Reagan's inaugural medal is no exception to this phenomenon. Media reports and advertisements of the 1981 inaugural medal have captured the attention of many Americans and piqued the curiosity of collectors, especially those attracted to the history of political medallic issues.

Published records of inaugural issues include Richard Dusterberg's 1971 account, The Official Inaugural Medals of the President of the United States, the first catalog of past official inaugural issues. In 1976, Neil MacNeil contributed anecdotal and historical perspectives in his book, The President's Medal, 1798-1977. Although MacNeil's work centers on the inaugural medal, he does focus some attention on the official inaugural committee badges. These badges however, were not catalogued completely until the publication this year of Joseph Levine's Collectors Guide—Presidential Inaugural Medals and Memorabilia.

In general, a special ribbon, occasionally with a medal attached, was used to identify an individual as a member of an inaugural committee. In 1885, committee members were provided with a ribbon badge only. In 1889, according to MacNeil, a ribbon badge with a medal attached portraying Harrison and Morton on the obverse and George Washington on the reverse was issued to committee members. Diagonally across the hanging ribbon was another smaller ribbon imprinted with the name of the committee. Until the discovery of a medal issued to Harrison's inaugural reception committee members, collectors have assumed that the latter badge was the only one used for committee membership designation.

The newly discovered badge appears to be made of three separate pieces of silver. The primary piece is irregularly shaped and has a maximum vertical length of 75mm and is 51mm at its widest point. A six pointed star has been hand cut in the center and enameled in red. The legend, INAUGURATION OF HARRISON AND MORTON, appears around the outer band in blue enamel. Superimposed upon the star is an oval band with the legend, RECEPTION COMMITTEE, enameled in black. A vertical rectangular bar extends from the back of the badge, perhaps designed to accommodate a neck ribbon.

Whether this badge is a one-of-a-kind item is a matter of conjecture. Certainly, its lack of appearance until recently indicates that this type of badge was not issued as a matter of course to all committee members. Perhaps this and similar pieces were presented to committee chairmen only.—H/JL

The Numismatist

John K. Blois

The year 1914 was one of the last truly peaceful times the United States has known. With a national innocence Americans were beginning to read of war in Europe, but the possibility of such a conflict having any effect on them seemed remote. Industrialization was sweeping the country, shortening the rigorous twelve to fourteen hour work day to a more moderate and welcome eight to ten hours. As a result Americans had more time to pursue outside interests. The Numismatist of 1914 reflects this innocence as well as an incredible amount of interest and enthusiasm in what was then a hobby only for those who took delight in the history, art, religion and culture of coins.

In 1914 The Numismatist was the major United States coin publication. Since then several other coin publications have sprung up, emphasizing different aspects of the hobby. Today, of course, there is a great deal more interest in a coin's investment potential than in what it represents. The Numismatist, however, has not followed this trend, and in fact has changed little over the years, not due to stagnation but rather to a continued insistence on high standards. The Numismatist is still the magazine for the collector—the person who acquires numismatic items from all parts of the world and from all periods of time because of the stories they tell.

Certainly it would be foolish to suppose that those collectors who read The Numismatist today hold absolutely no interest in whether or not their acquisitions will increase in value; however, it is refreshing that the philosophy of The Numismatist was not, and is not now, primarily concerned with what a coin will return after a prescribed period of time.

Although the editorial philosophy of The Numismatist may not have changed greatly from 1914 to 1981, some significant differences are evident between the early editions and those of today. The differences are most obvious in the magazine's approach to the hobby and the general philosophy of the membership. The fundamentals of the hobby remain much the same. For example, the August 1914 issue features a news release titled "Coins for a Leper Colony" stating that newly issued coins for this Philippine leper colony "are accepted at face value for all business carried on within the colony, but are of no value elsewhere." Such news seems somehow strange in 1981, and perhaps even inappropriate.

Certain phrases and terminology used in the 1914 issues are especially characteristic of earlier times. Some of these vintage words are in reference to grading. Although coins were being classified in good to uncirculated condition, "splendid" was apparently the 1914 equivalent to MS 65. In fact, "splendid" was used throughout all of the 1914 issues to describe practically everything. Coins were in "splendid" condition, dealers had "splendid" stocks, upcoming auctions offered a "splendid" variety of "splendid" coins. While we might wonder in 1981 exactly what made a coin "splendid" in 1914 readers 65 years hence will probably wonder exactly what "Choice Brilliant Uncirculated MS 65" meant in 1981.

Besides revealing the peculiarities of 1914, seasoned copies of The Numismatist attest to several topics and events of interest to the 1914 numismatist. A new nickel with an Indian on the obverse and a buffalo on the reverse was beginning to circulate. Dr. Charles E. McGirk presented a year-long study of U.S. Large Cents by variety—an exhaustive work that was later turned into a book familiar today to only a very few.

Among the 1914 news items that are still interesting to note today . . . A worker at Yale University uncovered a jar containing an 1804 dollar. He was "promptly offered $1200 for the specimen from a large New York firm" . . . Senator Thomas of Colorado offered a bill for a Pan-Pacific twenty-five cent piece—the bill was evidently never accepted . . . The ANA meeting was held in Springfield, Massachusetts, with about fifty representatives of the 700 member association attending.

The year 1914 also saw a push for reintroduction of a 3 cent piece. In fact, The American Society for Thrift made the 3 cent piece its main platform: "A ham sandwich for three cents, a chocolate ice cream soda and a street car ride for the same amount is the glittering prospect offered to the starving man and thirsty small boy by The American Society for Thrift. This society has worked untiringly for a three cent coin, that

Specimens of 1831 follow the same type as in former years, but the year is profile in varieties of die combinations, with odd and varied cracks in die, large and small reverse letters, the large predominating. $\frac{3}{4}$ A is the description given by Andrews of his No. 15. men was not to be found, only one of four missing in his entire collection. If such a specimen exists, and most probably it does, it is rare. Who can locate such a specimen? A column has been added with the heading A's and E's. There are several dies on which the right stand of A was deficient at its base, also the left stand of E in the reverse legend. There appears in 1832 a new variety of which no former description can be found in Andrews or bought, and five fail to mention it. In Class 1 being the most important plank in its platform." The society's reasons were quite interesting: "In Cleveland sandwiches may be purchased for three cents, which are about the same as five cent sandwiches in other cities," . . . Evidently a very large amount of business is done with a nickel simply because that is the smallest coin current for many purposes."

As in The Numismatist of today, there were reports on world coins, ancient coins, new issues, and even a rather interesting article on Indian wampum. Reports of the treasurer and addresses by the president of the ANA were included, and except for the archaic prose, the messages were the same as today. For example, in the January 1914 issue, ANA President Frank G. Duffield introduced himself to the readers as follows: "To prove worthy of the office to which you elected me, and to assist in materially adding to our usefulness, to our prestige, and to our numerical strength, and to aid in developing a greater interest in the subject of numismatics in our country, will be my purpose during my term of President of the A.N.A."

One of the most entertaining sections of this early volume, however, was the advertising. While a normal edition of today's The Numismatist might contain more than 200 pages of advertising, 1914 editions averaged ten pages with a full page of advertising costing only $10. Of these ten pages, about four were from overseas advertisers, mostly German, with the remaining pages advertising large U.S. dealers, mostly from New York City. Some of the advertising might be suspect to today's reader and would need clarification. One January advertiser proclaimed the following for sale: "100 U.S. Large Copper Cents, all perfect . . . $2.25." This same advertiser also had "1,3 and 4 Dollar [gold] pieces For Sale." How many coin dealers today carry "perfect" coins and four dollar gold pieces in stock?

A touch of personal service largely missing today is found in many of these old advertisements, although such services might be impossible to provide today because of the time involved. One brave advertiser proclaimed the following on the back cover of the September 1914 issue: "My stock of coins of every country is now very large and liberal parcels sent on approval to responsible collectors who advise me of the series they are interested in."

Perhaps the most interesting article published in the 1914 issues of The Numismatist is entitled "Why Collect Coins?" by Harry Earl Montgomery. The article appeared in the March issue and best summarizes the philosophies of the 1914 numismatist. The address at first may appear both out-dated and humorous, but it also is a poignant reminder of the things we, as numismatists in 1981, have lost. Notice that Montgomery does not even hint at the value of a coin as an investment. In fact, he makes no mention of a coin's value at all. Coin collecting, to Mr. Montgomery, is a hobby whose therapeutic values outweigh any monetary gain—quite a change from the coin collectors and the coin dealers of today who find the hobby at times stressful, at times exasperating, and far too infrequently offering the rewards to which Mr. Montgomery alludes.

"Why Collect Coins?"

BY HARRY EARL MONTGOMERY.

Address delivered before the Rochester Numismatic Association on Jan. 20, 1914

A few weeks ago a man who is the president of a National bank, a trustee of an historical society and an officer of an archaeological association, asked me this question: "What sense is there in collecting coins?"

This question, as undoubtedly you have learned by experience, is by no means an uncommon one to be asked even by men who are classed as intelligent. In my reply, I endeavored to convince my friend that coins are the most unerring and best preserved monuments of the ancient world and are historical records of supreme value, telling as they do of vanished cities long forgotten; giving portraits and names of rulers otherwise unknown, and standing as reflections of the time and country that issued them; that they reveal the religious belief of the ancient peoples and record the changing religious views of all the nations of the world during the last 2500 years; that ancient and modern coins illustrate the history of art from its earliest stages of development to its highest excellence, thence to its gradual decline and almost total eclipse during the darkness and turmoil of the middle ages and to its rise since the dawn of the Renaissance; and in short, that coins are of the highest value to the historian, the student of comparative religion, the artist, the poet, the architect, and the man of letters.

After parting from my friend, and being not at all satisfied with the way I had answered him, I began to ponder the question, "What sense is there in collecting coins?" And from my reading of biographies, my acquaintance with men, and my knowledge of life, I came first to the conclusion that in order for a man to fully enjoy his earthly existence he must have a hobby.

Wealth and leisure, the combination which the world deems the source of happiness, in reality, as we well know, brings but little joy, unless the activities of the mind, body and spirit are continually engaged in riding a hobby.

Not long ago, the president of one of our largest "trusts" was obliged to undergo a serious operation. Though the operation was successful the strain so weakened the man's heart that he was compelled to resign his office and give up active business. His physician gave him this advice: "You will never regain your strength or enjoy life until you choose a hobby and ride it hard. It will make no difference what hobby you adopt, but a hobby you must have if you are to find health and happiness." This millionaire failed to take his physician's advice, and having no business to occupy his mind save the cutting of coupons quarterly, is today one of the most restless, discontented and unhappy of men.

The business or professional man who has no special interest outside of his daily work is apt to find as the years pass and the silvery locks appear, that life becomes gray, dull and uninteresting. A few years ago, a man just past middle life, who, having amassed a fortune and feeling no longer the pressing need of close application to business, said to me: "I would give $10,000 if I could get a hobby and ride it as enthusiastically as you ride yours, but I don't seem to be able to become interested in anything." It was but two years from that time when this man, who possessed wealth and a civic and social position of prominence, was found dead in bed as a result of a self-administered drug. If I had been asked to write his epitaph, it would have been: "Having no hobby to ride, he found life not worth the living."

On the other hand, a man with a hobby is too busy to be unhappy and has no time for ennui or the blues. As soon as his day's work is done, with a leap and a bound, he jumps onto his hobby, and with cheer in his heart and enthusiasm stirring his blood, he enjoys a fore-taste of heavenly bliss as he rides to his castle in Spain.

One of the most contented and happy men it has been my good fortune to know intimately was a man descending the slopes of life, yet active in the affairs of business and an enthusiastic rider of a hobby—the collecting of autographs, portraits and books of and relating to Robert Burns and Dr. Samuel Johnson. His life was lived according to schedule: he arose at 6:30; was in his library with his collections until the 8:00 o'clock breakfast was served; at 9:00 was at his desk in his store where he remained until 5:30; after his 6:00 o'clock dinner he mounted his hobby and rode until 8:30, when he joined his wife to be her companion for the rest of the evening.

Is it any wonder that the demons of unrest, discontent and unhappiness found no lodging place in this man's mind?

No careful student can fail to reach the conclusion that an unsatisfied and unhappy life is a "hobbyless" life and that the way to find happiness is to get a hobby and ride it with all the enthusiasm of your being.

Since, therefore, a hobby is essential to the full enjoyment of life, the next point I considered was, whether my hobby, the collecting of coins, is a worthy one, and if I had gained from my collection and their study an adequate return for the time and money expended. While admitting that I had obtained quite a collection of the dry facts of history and a slight acquaintance with the various religious beliefs of the ancient peoples, and with the rise, the glory, and the decline of art, I began to question whether I had learned from my hobby any lessons which enable me to look at life more sanely, to study important questions more intelligently, and to lead a fuller and a better life.

Tonight, I shall recount to you some of the lessons I have learned from a study of the coins in my collection in order to see whether you agree with me in the conclusion at which I have arrived.

The first lesson learned was that as a city, a state and a nation possesses a social mind, a working hand, and a directing heart, a city, a state, or a nation can grow great and remain great only when it fully develops its intellectual capacity, its industrial and commercial life, and its religious spirit.

The symbol of the man-headed bull, typifying the union of physical strength and intellectual power, was adopted for their civic emblem by Neapolis, Gela, Hyria and other ancient pagan cities of Greece as it embodied their ideal of the requisites of good citizenship; and today, all that remains of those beautiful cities are a few broken columns, a noble statue or two, and the coins stamped with the man-headed bull. Therefore unless a nation recognizes this fact and provides for the three-fold development of her citizens her ultimate fate will be that which befell those magnificent city-states of the ancient world.

The way in which a state should develop her citizens is well illustrated by the development in the making of money. When only one side of a coin was stamped, you know how unattractive was the piece; when but the two sides were stamped, how seldom was the design well centered or the lines distinct, and how the rough and uneven edges marred the beauty of the piece; and that it was only when a ring or collar was invented to surround the disk or ball of metal to hold true the stamping of the sides, to make circular the coin, and to ornament the edge, a perfect coin was produced.

If but one side of a man's nature is developed the result will resemble that of the early coins of Aegina, Crotona, Persia, Sardis and Thebes—unshapely disks, with one side but fairly attractive and the rest of the coin repellant. It matters not which side of a man is developed; if it is the hand alone there is produced a low grade machine; if it is the mind alone, there is produced an abnormal being; if it is the heart alone, there is produced a weaking. If only two sides of a man are developed, the result may be as beautiful and effective as some of the Syracusan coins made from 350 to 300 B. C.; but the chances are that the great mass of men will be as imperfect as as were the great mass of the coins made before the third stage of development was reached.

What a vast improvement there would have been to those wondrously beautiful medallion coins of Cimon of Syracuse if the ring or collar had been used to make round the coin and even and smooth the edge?

The boy requires more training than he receives in our schools today; he needs the collar of spiritual development to guide the development of the physical and intellectual qualities in order to make symmetrical the full grown man.

The second lesson learned was, that unless a nation treats its colonial possessions with the same consideration accorded its own citizens, the time is sure to come when the colonies will be freed from her control.

After the conquest and destruction of Jerusalem by the Roman army in A. D. 70 the Emperor Tiberius celebrated the event by minting coins for circulation among the conquered Jews. These coins, it will be recalled, had on their obverse the portrait of the Emperor with a list of his titles, and on the reverse a Judean palm under which sat a weeping woman with head bowed in her hands while a Roman centurion stood guard over her. Fearing that the symbolism of the weeping woman under the Judean palm with the guarding Roman centurion at her side might not be rightly interpreted by the conquered nation under subjection to Rome, the Emperor had placed about the design the words "Judaea Capta".

In this manner Rome expressed her attitude toward the conquered nation, and compelled the Jews in all their business transactions to handle money which was a constant reminder of the fact that they were under Roman rule and that Rome considered them as her prisoners and intended to treat them as captives.

A few years earlier under the reign of Augustus the same treatment was accorded the conquered Egyptians, and these subject people were obliged to use money bearing on the obverse the portraits of Augustus and Agrippa, and on the reverse a crocodile, the symbol of Egypt, chained to a tree.

Rome lost both Judaea and Egypt, and the nations of today will lose their colonies if they treat their colonial subjects as Rome treated hers.

What an important lesson is to be learned from the motto placed on the first coin made by the authority of the United States. According to the Congressional Record of May 8, 1787, a resolution was passed directing the board of treasury to issue a copper coin having on one side "thirteen circles linked together and a small circle in the middle, with the words 'United States' round it; and in the center, the words 'we are one'; on the other side, a dial with the hours expressed on the face of it; a meridian Sun above, on one side of which the word 'Fugio' and on the other '1787'; below the dial, the words 'Mind your Business'."

This was the motto adopted by David Rittenhouse of Philadelphia when he was twenty-four years of age, and who by adhering closely to it—minding his own business and not interfering with the affairs of others—became one of the greatest scientists and philosophers of his day.

As that rule of action enabled Rittenhouse to become a great man, our forefathers concluded that should our government adopt the same rule, our Nation likewise would grow great.

It was thus that our newly organized Republic gave notice to the world that it intended to mind its own business and not to interfere with the business of other nations. President Washington, in his Farewell Address, reiterated this same sentiment when he urged his countrymen to devote themselves to the upbuilding of the United States and to refrain from making entangling alliances with foreign nations. And so long as our government has observed its first motto, it has provoked no trouble nor assumed obligations entailing disturbance, expense, or threatening war; and the lesson for our statesmen to learn today is, that our country can enjoy peace and prosperity within its borders and cordial friendly relationship with other nations only when it strictly adheres to the motto placed on the first coin of the United States, "Mind your Business."

Another lesson learned was, that without a personal investigation it is unwise to accept tradition or even common opinion regarding the men and women of history. For example, both tradition and common opinion assert that Cleopatra was a woman of wondrous beauty, and of unrivalled physical charms; yet, we who are familiar with her portrait as it appears on her coins, know how false is such tradition, how erroneous is such opinion. When we examine a coin struck under her direction, we may assume, and I believe properly so, that the portrait is not unflattering, and though the face that we see is intelligent, it fails to justify her reputation for the possession of such beauty as to have fascinated Julius Caesar and ruined Marc Antony. "When we view her features," said Mr. W. G. Hazlett, "we are nearly betrayed into suggesting that it must have been in her manner that much of her charm lay."

Those of us whose mental pictures of the ancient Greek, Syrian and Egyptian heroes have been obtained from marble works of art and from the writings of the Grecian poets, will be somewhat startled and considerably disillusioned when we examine the coins bearing portraits of the rulers of the third and second centuries before Christ. Instead of god-like features, we will find the commonplace countenances of the average men of today; and were it not for the inscription, King of Bithynia, of Pergamum, of Macedonia, of Syria, or of Egypt, there will be nothing to recall the so-called Golden Age when the men were supposed to resemble the Gods.

When we take up a medal having on one side the picture of a young man standing in the blazing sun splitting rails, encircled with the words "The Rail Splitter of 1830" and on the opposite side the bust of Abraham Lincoln and the words "President of the United States 1861", we learn the important lesson that in this American Republic a man is not precluded because of his poverty and privations from rising to occupy the most exalted position in the gift of the nation; that man is of more importance than his conditions; that man commands his own destiny; that all achievements are possible to a resolute, determined, hard-working man; and that in a democratic society, every man ultimately occupies the place where he rightfully belongs.

Another lesson we learn from a Lincoln medal is the proper evaluation of life, as where to place the chief emphasis in the consideration of the elements which constitute greatness in man.

In 1909 when a medal was struck to commemorate the centenary of the birth of this great martyred President, the one thing about his life and achievements deemed most worthy of commemoration was, not the fact that he conducted a great civil war to a triumphant conclusion, nor that he welded the dismembered states into an indissoluble union, nor that he gave manhood and womanhood to four million slaves, but that he lived "with malice toward none, with charity for all."

Finally, is it possible to look over our collections and note the coins and medals which were struck to commemorate noble deeds, heroic acts and unselfish sacrifices without being inspired and stimulated to cultivate the virtues and to emulate the deeds of those whose names and acts are recorded on these imperishable monuments?

My friends, after reviewing these few lessons which I have learned from my collection of coins, do you not agree with me that the hobby which we are riding is well worth while, in that it is an easy and delightful way to enrich one's knowledge regarding the notable men and women of history, and to store one's mind with facts as to the effects of tested political, industrial, economic and social movements, thereby enabling one to live a useful and, as a consequence, a happy life?

Looking at earlier editions of any magazine is enjoyable, and especially so when the magazine is of personal interest. When looking through back issues of The Numismatist an innocence in the numismatists of 1914 becomes apparent—a refreshing innocence and unawareness of the pecuniary direction in which numismatics was heading. Perhaps, however, if numismatists of 1914 were to evaluate the state of the hobby today, they would find that we are the innocent ones, unaware of the true rewards of collecting coins.

CLUB NEWS

Garden State Numismatic Association (LC-17)

GSNA President Archie A. Black presents $1,000 check to Ed Fleischmann and Pedro Collazo of the American Numismatic Association Certification Service. The donation represented proceeds after expenses from a two-day counterfeit detection seminar conducted by ANACS and sponsored by GSNA at the Landmark Inn, Woodbridge, New Jersey on September 13th & 14th.

Fifty-three numismatists recently converged on the Landmark Inn in Woodbridge, New Jersey to attend a two day counterfeit detection seminar sponsored by GSNA and conducted by the American Numismatic Association Certification Service. It was the second such seminar to be offered by the Garden State Numismatic Association.

Ed Fleischmann, an ANACS staff member in charge of the seminar, estimates that 25 to 35 percent of the coins sent to ANACS' Colorado Springs headquarters prove to be counterfeit. "Many of the coins sent to us are suspicious to begin with, and they're sent to us to confirm or reject that suspicion," he said.

Fleischmann feels that about 10 percent of all coins are counterfeit, which is a high figure when one considers that there are many thousands of coins in the collecting community. Also, even one false coin can cost the unsuspecting customer a fortune. More than one collector has been stunned when, after years of treasuring a coin, he's told it is worthless.

The real expertise, however, is in developing a sense of whether you're looking at a flaw that took place in the manufacturing process at the mint or whether the change was by accident or deliberate at a later date. During the two day seminar Fleischmann emphasized not only the importance of really looking at a coin, but of not turning down a coin because it has what the viewer thinks is a defect. That "defect" could actually prove authenticity.

Some of the general points made by Fleischmann at the seminar were:

- Develop a good set of records on what's normally seen on genuine and fake coins of a particular year. (The collector of a particular series, say the Morgan dollar, will probably develop more expertise than the collector of everything.)
- While it doesn't hurt to check mint marks and edges, as many collectors do, it's far more important to look at lettering, the texture of a coin's field and protected areas of a coin—areas that are within or surrounded by raised areas such as the nostril or inner ear of the person depicted.
- Learn to distinguish die polishing marks made at the mint from tooling gouges made in counterfeiting. (Learning to do that isn't difficult, but is best done by actually looking at coins rather than reading about them.)
- The presense or absence of any one detail doesn't necessarily mean a coin is good or bad. (The collector has to develop a profile on a coin.)
- True damage to a coin happens at random. (Flaws showing up at the same spot for different years—repeating dents, for example, are strong indications of forgery.)
- Raised defects are usually larger than depressions and are more easily seen with low-power magnifiers in low lighting conditions.
- Alterations, such as false mint marks, tend to show up with silver dollars and lesser denominations. Outright counterfeiting takes place more often with gold coins, but don't let that thought put you off guard when dealing with other coins.

In other recent GSNA news, American Numismatic Association President George Hatie presented ANA's Gold Life Member Club Certificate to the nonprofit organization at their awards and club representatives breakfast in Cherry Hills, New Jersey. In so doing, the association became the 17th such organization so honored in ANA's history.

Archie Black, GSNA President, stated that since the presentation of the award, the club has donated $100 towards the new ANA headquarters building addition; $1,000 to ANACS; and $500 for shelving in the ANA library expansion.

Johnson participated in a course on ancient coins and noted to MCCC members the crowded conditions throughout the ANA building. The narration of the trip to Colorado Springs was accompanied by a slide presentation in which Mr. Johnson shared the beauty of the Colorado area with club members.

The club's business meeting concluded with the nominating committee submitting the slate of officers for 1981: Ted Bennett, president; Walter F. Miller, first vice president; Joseph Kane, second vice president; Helen Rickrode, secretary; Fred Dunn, treasurer; and Charles Eaton, sergeant at arms.

The Montgomery County Coin Club meets the 2nd Wednesday of the month at 8 p.m. in the Citizens Savings and Loan Building, Connecticut and Faragut Avenues, Kensington, Maryland.

St. Petersburg Coin Club (C-20000)

The St. Petersburg Coin Club held its annual coin show October 3 to 5 at the Bayfront Concourse Hotel, drawing one of the largest attendances in its history. The club's president, Robert L. Wiley III, reported that 80 dealers from all over the country displayed a wide variety of items.

Awards presented to exhibitors included Best of Show to Richard Watley for his "Civil War Tokens of Pennsylvania;" First in U.S. Coins to Earl Massey for a display of "Obsolete U.S. Coins;" and First in Foreign Coins to Sidney Ripon's "Coins of Israel." Carl Olsson of Gainesville, Florida took First in Paper Money with his "Founders of Physics." Among junior exhibitors entered, Betty Cole's "Presidential Wooden Nickels" won first prize, while Helen Moore's specialty of "Love Tokens" won second. James Cole's "Massachusetts Medals" also took a second prize.

The St. Petersburg Coin Club meets regularly the second Tuesday of every month at the Legion Hall on 4th Street North, St. Petersburg, Florida.

Long Island Coin Club (C-99097)

The all new Vista International Hotel located at 3 World Trade Center in New York City will be the sight of the Metropolitan New York Numismatic Convention, to be held April 2-5. Noted numismatist and general chairman of the convention, Doug Walcutt, believes the show will offer twice as many dealers as before due to the increase in the amount of space at the new location. A Young Numismatist Program, an Educational Forum and many fine exhibits will highlight the convention. The Long Island Coin Club, which is hosting the event, and several other local clubs will hold meetings at the assembly. For further information regarding the show write to John P. Jensen, secretary, P.O. Box 1215, New Rochelle, NY 10802.

Israel Numismatic Society of Brooklyn (C-72059)

In celebration of the club's 10th anniversary, the Israel Numismatic Society of Brooklyn has commissioned the Franklin Mint to strike a special limited medallic issue. The proclamation issue proof medals, designed by current club President Nathan Sobel, are all 39mm in size and have a total mintage of 28 gold, 40 sterling silver and 100 bronze.

The obverse of the medal depicts the Brooklyn Bridge, the adopted emblem of the club, and also features the two towers of the World Trade Center in the background. Ten scattered stars symbolize the club's decade of existence and the inscription "Israel Numismatic Society of Brooklyn 1971-1980" surrounds the rim. The reverse of the medal shows a facsimile of the official proclamation awarded to the club by Howard Golden, borough president of Brooklyn, declaring May 4th, 1980, as Israel Numismatic Society of Brooklyn Day.

All gold and silver medals were immediately sold out to club members; however, a few of the bronze are still being offered at $15 each. Persons interested should make checks payable to INS of Brooklyn and mail to Stephen Weiner, P.O. Box 632, Cooper Station, NY 10276.

Sussex County Coin Club (C-98607)

More than 300 visitors attended the 3rd Annual Sussex County Coin Club Show at Newton, New Jersey last fall, and Show Chairman William H. Horton, Jr. of Franklin, New Jersey, reported that the show was successful beyond all club expectations. According to Horton, collectors in the area have never had a major show of their own to attend and really responded enthusiastically; the 15 dealers in the bourse area were hard pressed to keep up with customers' demands for quality type coins, gold coins, proof sets and paper money.

The highlight of the show was the exhibit area, where club members and visitors attempted to win the attractive trophies provided by the club. Chairman Horton assembled an array of 9 exhibits including a non-competitive display. Names of exhibit winners are as follows: David Vachitis, junior best of show; Ed Smith, best of show; Paul Pfile, first place; Dennis Tilghman, second place; and George Cuhaj, third place. Exhibit awards were also presented to Robert Allen, Al Vachitis, and Doug Tilghman. William Horton, Jr. received the non-competitive award.

The Sussex County Coin Club meets on the second Monday of the month at the Sussex County Extension Service Building on Route #206, Andover, New Jersey, at 7:45 p.m.

San Francisco Coin Club (C-40283)

The Harry Huntington Youth Award will be presented for the first time on March 29 by the San Francisco Coin Club at their 18th Annual San Francisco Coin Fair, to be held at the Jack Tar Hotel in San Francisco. Donated by Peter F. Hamilton in honor of the late Harry Huntington, the award will be presented every year to the junior exhibitor whose exhibit receives the judges' highest score. The purpose of the award, according to Mr. Hamilton, "is to carry on Huntington's interest and enthusiasm in encouraging young people in the pursuit of numismatics as a hobby."

In addition to the Harry Huntington Youth Award, the SFCC is also inau-guring a Junior Numismatic Program with points being given for involvement and participation by junior members in numismatic affairs. At the end of the year, the junior with the highest number of points will be named "SFCC Junior Numismatist of the Year," and in addition to receiving an award, the junior will also receive one year's free membership.

Admission is free and the event promises to have an exceptionally large and varied bourse. For more information on the Coin Fair or membership in the club, write to O.L. Wallis, 58 Tan Oak Circle, San Rafael, CA 94903.

Great Eastern Numismatic Association (C-49848)

The Great Eastern Numismatic Association's 18th Annual Convention, held recently at the New York Statler Hotel, was the sight of an exciting show and breakfast awards ceremony. Nearly 3,000 persons registered and all visitors received a wooden money souvenir.

Guest speakers included Charles Wolfe, noted dealer in ancient coins, and Michael Ruger, the winner of last year's GENA sponsored trip to the ANA Summer Seminar in Colorado Springs. George Hatie, ANA president, spoke about Coins on Currency; and Dr. Alan Stahl, assistant curator of medieval coins at the American Numismatic Society, elaborated on Themes and Variations of Medieval Coinage.

During the Awards Breakfast, the Numismatic Ambassador's Award was presented to outgoing GENA President, Frank J. Caggiano, by Chet Krause of Krause Publications. Special presentations were made to William J. Loss and Thomas Lawless in appreciation of the outstanding job they did in setting up the convention. Tom Lawless also received the Harry Pergolino Memorial Award as "Worker of the Year." Under the new GENA policy honoring past and present members, the Anne Troth Award was presented to Agnes Alones as "Woman of the Year," and the Roger

J. Storm Memorial Award went to Dave Gorlin for "Man of the Year."

An election of officers resulted in the following persons being nominated to office: William J. Loss, president; Dave Gorlin, 1st vice president; William Horton, 2nd vice president; William Ollis, treasurer; Joan Brand, secretary; and Vincent Alones, sergeant at arms.

Exhibit winners at the convention included Frank Krohl, who received a Best of Show for his display of Merchant Tokens of New York. First Place awards were presented to James Brandt, U.S. Coins; William Horton, Paper Money; Alan Weinberg, Tokens and Medals; Vincent Alones, Foreign; and Steve Bergman, Miscellaneous. Second and Third Place Awards were presented to Joseph Ridder, Paul Pfeil, Ernest Bain, Robert Seegar, Barbara Izzo, and Arnold Kovacs, respectively. Young Numismatist Exhibit Awards were received by Christine Hahl, First Place; Doug Meltzer, Second Place; and Cliff Levy, Third Place. Joseph Abiuso, William Horton and Agnes Alones received Invitational Awards.

Society for International Numismatics (C-39486)

Anticipating a repeat of their successful gathering in 1980, the Society for International Numismatics has scheduled its 1981 convention for March 26-29 at the Airport Park Hotel in Los Angeles. George Russell, bourse chairman, may be contacted at P.O. Box 943, Santa Monica, CA 90406.

Jacksonville Coin Club (C-97061)

The 3rd Annual Show of the Jacksonville Coin Club will be held April 11-12 at the Ramada Inn in Jacksonville, Arkansas. An exhibit competition is planned and winners will receive trophies on Sunday morning. Bourse is being handled by Harold Pemberton, and details may be obtained by writing P.O. Box 546, Jacksonville, Arkansas 72076. Admission to the event is free and show hours are 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. April 11, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. April 12.

UNITED STATES

Mint Announces Price Increases for Some Medals

Director of the Mint Stella Hackel Sims has announced that the prices of some of the list medals manufactured by the United States Mint were increased effective February 1, 1981. The price increases are primarily in the larger size medals produced by the Mint.

The three-inch size Presidential Series medals and all medals in the Secretary of the Treasury, Director of the Mint, the Army, Navy, and Chief Justice of the Supreme Court Series have increased in price to $8.30 by mail order. Over the counter prices at Mint sales outlets are $8 each. All three-inch medals in the National Historical Series and the Official Mint Medals and Historic Buildings Series have increased to $8.30 by mail and $8 over the counter. In addition, Medal Numbers 601, 606, 611, 613, 621 and 622 have increased to $2 over the counter and $2.15 by mail order. Medal Numbers 604 and 610 have increased in price to $7 over the counter and $7.30 by mail order. All other medal prices in the National Historical Series and the Mint's Miniature Medal Series including the popular Miniature Presidential Series remain unchanged. Decreased production as well as material and mailing costs have necessitated these price increases.

Other medal series available to the public are Secretaries of the Treasury, Directors of the Mint and Army and Navy. The Army medals depict great moments in American military history. Many are duplicates of gold and silver medals presented to the heroes of the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, the War with Mexico, and the Civil War. Most reverses depict those famous battles. Great naval heroes are honored in the Navy series in recognition of famous battles at sea. Most reverses portray naval engagements which affected the course of American history. The National Historical Series medals commemorate national events and outstanding Americans memorialized by the Congress. The Indian Peace Oval Medals are available in this series and also the Joseph Francis Medal which was modeled by Augustus St. Gaudens. Official Mint Medals and Historic Buildings Medals are also available.

Mint medals and further information can be obtained by writing to the Bureau of the Mint, 55 Mint Street, San Francisco, California 94175. A personal check, in addition to money orders or cashier's checks, are acceptable payment for the medals and should be made payable to Bureau of the Mint. Remittances for orders from other countries should be payable to the Bureau of the Mint either by an International Money Order or a check drawn on a United States bank payable in United States currency. Please do not send cash.

The Mint medals are sold over the counter at the following Mint sales outlets: Philadelphia Mint, Independence Mall, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Denver Mint, 320 West Colfax Ave., Denver, Colorado; San Francisco Old Mint, 88 Fifth St., San Francisco, California; Department of the Treasury, 15th Street and Pennsylvania Ave., Washington, D.C.

Wayne Medal Unprecedented In Popularity

More than 700,000 orders have been placed for the U.S. Mint's bronze medal honoring the American movie hero John Wayne. The obverse of the medal features a likeness of Wayne as Davey Crockett in the movie "The Alamo" and is inscribed with the legend JOHN WAYNE—AMERICAN. The reverse shows Wayne on horseback in his familiar role as a cowboy.

Available in both 1 1/2 and 3-inch sizes, the medal is unprecedented in its popularity among medals issued by the Mint, according to Francis Frere, the

Sesquicentennial Medal Honors Founding of Public Education

A medal commemorating the sesquicentennial of historic Marshall, Michigan is now being struck by Medallic Art Company of Danbury, Connecticut. The medal, which celebrates Marshall and its significant role in our national system of public education, was proposed by Wayne D. Jackson of Logansport, Indiana, a 25 year member of the American Numismatic Association. Commissioned by Marshall civic leader and surgeon Dr. Philip R. Glotfelty, the piece was designed by KMH Associates of Ceresco.

The obverse features the "Educational Oak," Marshall's distinctive wooden statue honoring the founding, in 1834, of the Michigan Public School System. Artist Jerry Ward carved the statue, which was also commissioned by Dr. Glotfelty, from the oak tree under which Attorney Isaac Cray and the Reverend John Pierce stood as they exchanged ideas for a new educational system that would become a model for the rest of the nation.

The reverse of the medal depicts the Brooks Memorial Fountain, built in 1930 to commemorate Marshall's centennial. Designed by architect Howard F. Young and commissioned by Mayor and civic leader Harold C. Brooks to honor his father, the fountain is a replica of the "Temple of Love" in Marie Antoinette's garden at Versailles. The Brooks Fountain is now a feature of downtown Marshall, a community filled with architectural delights.

Six hundred serial numbered, 3-inch diameter medals are being struck in solid bronze, one of which will be presented to the Marshall Historical Society, along with the defaced dies. Because of its educational significance, a medal will be presented to the Smithsonian Institution and also to the ANA museum in Colorado Springs. George D. Hatie, president of the ANA and a Michigan native, will make the presentations.

Approximately one hundred medals will be made available to the public. The price of $20 includes first class postage and handling. Those interested in ordering a medal should make their checks payable to: Education Oak Fund. Remittance and return address should be mailed to: Michigan National Bank, 124 West Michigan Avenue, Marshall, MI 49068.

Mint's assistant director for marketing. Orders for the medal were accepted by the Mint in June of 1979 but were not filled until March 1980 when Wayne's family was officially presented with a special 15.185 troy ounce gold issue of the medal. Requests for the medal have since been so numerous as to create a delay of several months in filling orders.

The medals are available by mail from the Bureau of the Mint, 55 Mint St., San Francisco, CA 94175 for $1.10 in the small version and $8.30 in the large version. When ordering by mail collectors should indicate orders for the small medal with the number 667 and the large medal with the number 666. The medals may also be purchased over the counter at any one of the four Mint locations: the San Francisco Old Mint, the Philadelphia Mint, the Denver Mint, and the Main Treasury Building in Washington, D.C. The over the counter purchase price is $1 and $8 for the small and large issues respectively. A maximum of 25 of the large medals and 100 of the small medals may be purchased at one time.

Postal-Medallion Reagan Commemorative

For the first time in its history the Presidential Inaugural Committee has authorized the creation of a postal-medallion graphic commemorating the inauguration of a Republican president.

Designed by George L. Rebh, the graphic measures 8½ by 11 inches and features a smiling portrait of President Reagan overlapping the Presidential seal. Inset into each graphic is a 1¼ inch bronze official inaugural medal picturing sculptor Ed Fraughton's portrait of President Reagan on the obverse and the west front of the U.S. Capitol building on the reverse. To the right of the inset medal is a postal cancellation for inauguration day, January 20, 1981, Washington, D.C.

These unique commemorative issues, which are shipped in a presidential blue protective folio, are available to the public for $30 each. Further information about the commemoratives is available from the Westport Marketing Group, Inaugural Graphic, 50 Riverside Avenue, Westport, CT 06880.

Official 1981 Inauguration Seal

The Presidential Inaugural Committee has authorized The Historic Providence Mint to strike a limited minting of the official 1981 Inaugural Seal which commemorates the January 20, 1981 inauguration of Ronald W. Reagan as the 40th President of the United States and George Bush as the 43rd Vice-President.

Each official Inaugural Seal features the United States Capitol, one star for each of the 50 states in the nation, and a heraldic seal which has been attributed to the Office of the President under George Washington. The 1981 Inaugural Seal is also distinguished by the laurel cluster at the lower edge. Each medal will be individually numbered on its rim and struck in a one-inch diameter size.

In the tradition of Presidential Inaugural Medals, the 1981 Inaugural Seal will be minted in a single proof edition in solid bronze, sterling silver proof, and 24-karat gold on sterling silver (24-karat gold vermeil). A solid 14-karat gold proof medal will also be available in a limited worldwide edition of 2,500.

Additional information, including prices of the various editions of the Inaugural Seal, can be obtained by contacting: The Historic Providence Mint, 222 Harrison St., Providence, RI 02901.

THE ROMAN COIN PROJECT

David R. Cervin

Originated and administered by David R. Cervin, the Roman Coin Project is a program specially designed for junior members of the ANA to earn Roman and Byzantine coins for their activities in numismatics. Up to eight coins can be earned, four Roman coins in the initial program, and four Byzantine coins in the advanced section.

In the initial program, the first three coins can be earned from numismatic participation in three of six categories: educational presentations, exhibiting, writing, club office, show committee chairmanship, or receiving a badge in numismatics from your youth group. The fourth coin must be earned by completing the ANA's Young Numismatists Correspondence Course. In the advanced program, coin number five is earned by signing up a new ANA member, coin number six by signing up two additional members, coin number seven for the publication of at least 500 words in a major numismatic publication, and coin number eight for planning and executing an exhibit of the coins earned thus far in the program.

For further information or a Roman Coin Request Form write David R. Cervin, 6201 Adirondack, Amarillo, TX 79106.

On most United States coins may be seen: E PLURIBUS UNUM. Do you know what this means? Undoubtedly you do, but if you don't, it is Latin for "One Out of Many." But remember you weren't born with this knowledge. You had to dig it up somehow, possibly by inquiring of more experienced collectors in your club, or maybe you looked it up in a dictionary rich in foreign language mottos.

At this point it is only fair to point out that probably the greatest satisfaction in all numismatics is the successful translation of mottos and other data found on coins. When you can do this, even in a very limited way, you may call yourself a "numismatist."

Now let us try something a bit harder. Suppose you acquired a coin having a Roman emperor on the obverse and VOT XX MVLT XXX on the reverse. Can you translate this? Perhaps not, but don't fret. Comparatively few established collectors of Roman Coins can. But before studying the meaning of these words and Xs, listen to this: I have acquired over a several year period thirty-two of this type of coin, and they will be awarded as first Roman coins to the next thirty-two juniors who qualify under this program (see masthead). One exception: Any veteran of this program may request one of these coins for his or her next earned coin. There is absolutely no way to beat this offer, so, you young numismatists, get in on the act.

Basically these Roman symbols are religious vows undertaken by higher officials, especially emperors, and usually for periods of years divisible by ten (X, XX, XXX, etc.), though five was sometimes used (V, XV, etc.). Augustus, 27 B.C.-A.D. 14, was the first to indicate his vows on coins. However, it was during the fourth and fifth centuries that most of the coins with this inscription were issued.

In general the first part, VOT XX, refers to vows performed, while the second part, MVLT XXX, refers to vows to be undertaken. Thus a translation might read: "Vows paid (or performed) for a twenty year period, and many (MVLT) undertaken for a (future) thirty year period." Assistance in formulating this interpretation came from Clem Rowe of Des Peres, Missouri, and Dan Clark of Denton, Montana.

A keen student of Latin might contest this interpretation, and his thoughts, should they be expressed in writing, will be presented in a future RCP column. Studies by juniors will also be looked forward to. For example, were these vows always of a religious nature, and if so, were they both pagan and Christian? Information on this subject is hard to find. Any junior who gives me new information or raises a thoughtful question will be awarded an extra VOTA XX coin in close to VF condition.

Special Rates for New Museum Magazine

The ANA is pleased to announce an agreement with the publisher of Museum Magazine whereby this beautiful, bimonthly journal is available to ANA members at a substantial saving. For a limited period ANA members may obtain a charter subscription for $12.00 for one year (a 20% discount) or $20.00 for two years (a 33% discount). For each member who subscribes, Museum Magazine will make a sizeable contribution to the ANA building addition fund.

Museum Magazine is a new publication devoted entirely to art, history and science museums of the world. The magazine is designed to appeal to the educated tastes of serious collectors whose lifestyles make them interested in all forms of art, science and history, and the overall achievements of mankind. Charter issues have included articles of special interest to the numismatist. The most significant and extraordinary collections from 24,000 museums throughout the world are covered in this full color, high quality publication. Each issue will include new discoveries, auctions, book reviews, previews of special collections, schedules of traveling exhibits and worldwide museum tours.

The American Numismatic Association joins the New Orleans Museum of Art, the Franklin Institute, the Rochester Museum and Science Center, the Jewish Museum, Chicago's Field Museum, the San Diego Museum of Art and more than 50 other great institutions in making this special offer available to its members. Subscription remittances should be made payable to Museum Magazine and forwarded to the American Numismatic Association, P.O. Box 2366, Colorado Springs, CO 80901. The ANA will forward subscription orders to the publisher.

Call to Convention

In accordance with Article IX, Section I, of the revised bylaws of January 1, 1980, the American Numismatic Association shall meet in convention once each year, at such time and place as may be decided upon by the board of governors.

The time and place having been agreed upon by the board for the 90th Anniversary Convention, the association will meet in New Orleans, Louisiana, July 28 - August 2, 1981, in the New Orleans Hilton Hotel. General chairman for the convention is Robert S. Eddy, 4120 Ithaca Street, Metairie, LA 70002.

A History of the 1981 Convention City

*Lee Circle in St. Charles Avenue
New Orleans*

ASSOCIATION NEWS

"Eat, drink, and be merry, for tomorrow . . ." This familiar phrase seems to faintly echo through the streets of New Orleans, calling to inhabitants and visitors alike to indulge in the pleasures offered by this colorful city. From spicy Cajun specialties and hot jazz to the lively French market and the festive Mardi Gras . . . one is quickly caught up in the infectious spirit of New Orleans, as members will discover when they attend the American Numismatic Association's 90th Anniversary Convention July 28-August 2, 1981.

The "live for today" atmosphere that pervades New Orleans is easy to understand when viewed in perspective of the city's history—a history of constant struggle to survive until tomorrow. Even today, New Orleans remains a symbol of man's triumph over nature, surrounded by swamps and marshy delta lands. With half of its area below sea level, only an intricate network of pumping stations keeps the city from being inundated by capricious tides and heavy rains.

In the early 1700s the wilderness at the mouth of the Mississippi seemed an unlikely place to establish a colony in the New World, but the French believed that a fortified Mississippi would secure the vulnerable fur trading regions to the north, and control of the river's inlet was of the greatest strategic importance. French Governor of Louisiana, Jean Baptiste de Moyne, sieur de Bienville, chose a spot for a settlement with a commanding view of the river but slightly higher than the swamps that lay to the north and south. The location was not far from the river's mouth, but was enough inland to escape the worst of the tropical hurricanes that swept in from the Mexican Gulf.

By 1722 a small levee had been constructed to hold back the floodwaters and a cluster of rude cabins appeared, built of split cypress boards, separated by willow groves and weed-grown ponds swarming with reptiles. Clever propaganda forwarded to entice colonists from France, however, described La Nouvelle Orleans as a great city, a place of tropical luxury where men lived like kings and were waited upon by beautiful and exotic women. Parisian cafes buzzed with constant talk of gold and silver mines, of vast vineyards, of ease and opulence, but the spirited Frenchmen, dreaming of a grand life in the new world, were unaware that Louisiana was in reality a wilderness beyond their imaginations. Hundreds of men made the journey to this new land only to find their dreams shattered, and many perished, victims of the harsh environment. Those who survived slowly tamed the fertile Mississippi delta and built a network of plantations that brought the area great prosperity one hundred years later.

The colony had been surveyed and drawn up by Chevalier Le Blond de la Tour, and its streets bore the names of French leaders and landmarks. Two squares on the river front were set apart for military and ecclesiastical use. The religious needs of the town's 880 residents were soon being looked after by a brotherhood of Capuchin monks who arrived in 1724 and a company of Ursuline nuns who founded their church in 1727. The Ursulines played a particularly important role in the early history of New Orleans as it was they who cared for and educated the young women brought to the colony to be wives, and gave shelter to the sick and orphaned. In the heart of the vieux carré at the corner of Ursuline and Chartres Streets the convent of the Ursuline nuns still stands—the oldest building in New Orleans and perhaps the oldest structure in the Mississippi Valley.

Storms and disasters occurred repeatedly during the town's early years, but those settlers with determination bore them out and endured, among them a group of Germans. More than ten thousand Germans had emigrated in search of the promised paradise, many of whom settled along the Arkansas River and from there found their way to New Orleans. Some of the oldest and proudest Creole families of today trace their ancestry to these stalwart men and women.

The ANA is proud to announce that renowned sculptor-medallist Paul Vinze has designed and sculpted the plasters which the Medallie Art Company in Danbury, Conn., will strike for the 1981 New Orleans convention medal. On the obverse is an allegorical composition of two figures with the association's motto above "KNOWLEDGE THROUGH NUMISMATICS" and the dates below, "1891, "90" contained in a circle, and "1981" denoting the ANA's 90th anniversary meeting. On the reverse is a composition of three circles, each containing a scene significant to New Orleans history: the signing of the Louisiana Purchase, traffic on the Mississippi River, and the St. Louis Cathedral in Jackson Square. The legend around reads "AMERICAN NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION 90TH ANNIVERSARY CONVENTION • NEW ORLEANS LA. • Information on costs and ordering for the various editions being struck will be available in a future issue of The Numismatist.

In 1763 the Treaty of Paris was concluded between France and England, by which England gained all the territory east of the Mississippi except for the Isle of Orleans. By secret treaty, signed on November 3, 1762, Louis XV gave the Isle of Orleans and all of Louisiana west of the Mississippi to his cousin, Charles III of Spain. The news was not well taken by the residents of New Orleans, but it was to be the blending of these two cultures, French and Spanish, that would create the unique Creole culture singular to the region.

In 1788 and again in 1794, huge portions of the town were destroyed by fire. Spanish merchant Almonaster y Rojas was a principal benefactor in the reconstruction of the city which was rebuilt of more durable materials. The "French Quarter" of today is actually the Spanish city that rose from the ashes of French New Orleans.

With the Treaty of St. Ildephonso in 1800, Louisiana passed back into the hands of France, and Napoleon promptly sold the province to the United States. On November 30, 1803, Laussat received the keys to New Orleans from Spanish commissioners Salcedo and Casa Calvo. On December 20, Louisiana was formally transferred to the U.S., represented by General Wilkinson and W.C.C. Claiborne, on the balcony of the Calildo, overlooking the Place d'Armes.

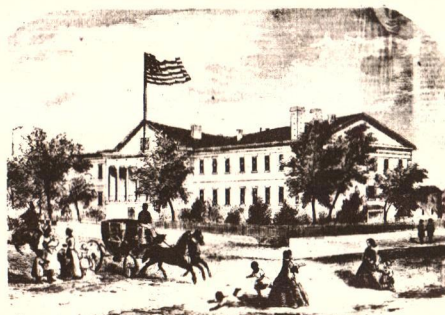

Again the cultured Creole population of New Orleans feared the impact of a change in government for at the time the word "American" was synonymous with "barbarian." But contrary to all fears, river trade boomed with the transfer in power and the population of New Orleans doubled between 1803 and 1810.

VEÛE DE LA NOUVELLE ORLEANS

From its beginnings, river traffic on the Mississippi and access to the Gulf of Mexico were the life blood of New Orleans. With the growth of the trade on the river came the prosperity of the city, as seen most dramatically in the sketch below, published in Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, 1833.

The prosperity of New Orleans grew, based upon an economic system that Louisianians believed to be sound: river commerce and slave labor. But when New Orleans fell to the Union forces on April 24, 1862, its economic system and prosperity fell with it. The period of reconstruction that followed was a painful transition for the city. Resentment toward the freed slaves and the "carpet-baggers" who manipulated them for political power caused much racial and political strife. Many years passed before New Orleans regained its economic footing and began again to grow and prosper.

prosperous, fat and happy, safe from nature's elements. The fortitude and good humor of its residents, which brought the city through many dark times, continues to bathe New Orleans in a special light of merriment. The people of New Orleans know well that the best way to endure the strife of daily life is to actively indulge in its pleasures . . . an exuberant attitude that will infect members who attend the ANA's 90th Anniversary Convention July 28-August 2 in this very special city.

CALIFORNIA '76, TOKENS AND MEDALS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION BICENTENNIAL, by Stephen Album and Duane H. Feisel. 1980. 141p. Illus. Paper Cover. Western States Token Society, c/o William Williges, Jr., P.O. Box 172, Orland, CA 95963. $6.

A special area of numismatics was created by the nationwide events of 1976—Bicentennial numismatics including the $2 bill cancellations as well as the many medals and tokens issued by local committees. This book lists the metal and plastic tokens and medals issued in California to commemorate the Bicentennial. It excludes scrip, wooden nickels and those medals and tokens which were issued in 1976 but which do not refer to the Bicentennial. It also does not include Bicentennial medals which were not issued by a state organization or community. The authors have used the cataloguing system of Robert R.

Heath who has published books on the local issues of Massachusetts and New Hampshire. Each listing includes a description of the obverse and reverse, the metal used, size, edge, number struck, price, the name of the designer, the issuing body and the manufacturer. Specific notes have been added where necessary and most pieces are pictured.

THE JOY OF EFFORT: A BIOGRAPHY OF R. TAIT MCKENZIE, by Jean McGill. 1980. 271p. Illus. Paper cover. Jean McGill, 501-190 Colin Ave., Toronto, Ontario. M5P 2C6 Canada. $20.95.

R. Tait McKenzie was a Canadian doctor who was also a talented sculptor. His special interests were physical fitness and physical education, both of which he taught at McGill University for several years. Many of the figures he sculpted were athletes, including the beautiful Joy of Effort plaque done for the 1912 Olympics in Stockholm and later used in a smaller version as an athletic award. This biography gives an historical overview of McKenzie's work, including many portrait medals and medallions he sculpted in addition to three-dimensional figures.

OBSOLETE FRACTIONAL COINAGE OF THE UNITED STATES, by Paul Andersen. 1980. 67 p. Illus. Paper cover. Paul Andersen, Box 2184, Laguna Hills, CA 92653. $2.

Many former American coins fail to be recognized as American by non-collectors. Mr. Andersen has presented a concise history of each of these denominations including the half cent, two cent, three cent silver, three cent nickel, half dime and twenty cent pieces. Each coin is pictured; a bibliography and glossary are also included.

THE COINAGE OF KAMARINA, by Ulla Westermarck and Kenneth Jenkins. 1980. 283p. Plates. Hard cover. Royal Numismatic Society, c/o Dept. of Coins and Medals, The British Museum, London WC1B 3DG, England. $35.

Kamarina, a Greek city in Sicily founded in 598 B.C., produced what are considered to be among the most beautiful of ancient Greek coins during the fifth and fourth centuries B.C. This catalogue, which is based on the research of the late Dr. Eunice Work, contains a history of the area and an analysis of the coinage as well as the catalogue itself. Public and private collections from around the world are catalogued and particular attention has been paid to die varieties.

VIRGINIA TOKENS, by David E. Schenkman. 1980. 238p. Illus. Hard cover. Virginia Numismatic Association, P.O. Box 353, Hampton, VA 23669. $27.

This book is the product of an ambitious attempt to list all merchant tokens issued in Virginia from the 1830s to the early 1950s excluding wooden nickels, Masonic Chapter pennies, encased pennies and commemorative tokens. Also excluded are tokens issued after the early '50s and parking tokens, car wash tokens and food stamp tokens, most of which are recent issues. The tokens are listed by city and alphabetically by business within the city. Most are pictured and an approximate value is supplied. The author has included an index which identifies the city of issue for those tokens which do not have the location in the inscription.

CAMPBELLS TOKENS OF UTAH, by Harry F. Campbell. 1980. 392p. Illus. Paper cover. Harry F. Campbell, c/o D. Beeley, 50 Silkwood St., Algester, Brisbane, Queensland, Australia Q4115.

The ANA library now has its first book on the merchant tokens of Utah. Written and published by Harry Campbell, the book lists the tokens in alphabetical order by the name of the issuing business or organization as stated on the piece itself. There is no geographical index by town. Each token is illustrated with an obverse and reverse rubbing, and in addition to the description, the author has included a value for the item in extremely fine condition. Wooden nickels and mavericks are listed in separate sections in the book.

OBITUARIES

Colorado Springs coin dealer R.L. Cooper, 64, died November 7 in a local hospital following a brief confinement.

A native of Tennessee, Cooper moved to Colorado Springs in 1933. Before opening a coin shop in 1965, he had been an accountant with Holly Sugar Company for a dozen years. He "caught" an interest in coin collecting from Mary Alice, his wife since 1940, and began to attend coin shows as a part-time dealer. He served in several offices of the Colorado Springs Coin Club and assisted in the conduct of at least one coin show.

After the ANA headquarters was established, Cooper acquired property in 1967 only a couple of blocks away and moved his office there but devoted part of his time to the real estate business. He was a member of several service clubs and fraternal organizations in Colorado Springs.

Survivors include his widow, Mary Alice; two sons and a daughter; two brothers and a sister; and three grandchildren.

Leo G. Terry ANA 14853

Thirty-three year member Leo G. Terry died on December 31 at age 78 in Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis where he had been hospitalized with what was diagnosed as pneumonia. Born in Hart County, Kentucky, Leo had lived in Indianapolis for 58 years and had the same street address during his entire ANA membership.

Five years before becoming an ANA member, Leo joined the Indianapolis Coin Club as member No. 101 and in 1973, as a thirty-year member, he was honored with Life Membership No. 4. He had served the club as secretary, board member, chairman for the club's participation in the local hobby show for ten years, vice president and, in 1954, as president.

Leo traveled throughout the state promoting the formation of the Indiana State Numismatic Association, served as its first president, 1958-59, and was the first recipient of its President's Award. He was active also in forming the Kentucky State Numismatic Association a few years later. He declined its first presidency, not being a resident of the state, but was honored with its No. 1 membership. Member No. 337 of Central States Numismatic Society, Leo was its 1964-65 president and a governor for several years.

At the national level, Leo served in several ANA positions, including three awards committees, National Coin Week (chairman in 1958), papers committee, and exhibit judge at several conventions. Although never an elected officer, he was a candidate in four elections and runner-up in two of them. For his many services in numerous areas, he was awarded the ANA Medal of Merit in 1960.

Leo's application for ANA membership in 1947 listed his occupation as upholsterer, but a few years later he was the owner of an interior decorating and furniture business. At numerous shows and conventions he exhibited his Washington and Lincoln medals and commemorative half dollars.

Survivors include a son and a daughter; his wife Clara preceded him in death in 1978. Knowledgeable men who knew Leo during his active years have affirmed that no one did more for numismatics in Indiana than did modest Leo Terry.—F/R

Appointed Officers' and Staff Names Omitted

Association bylaws require publication of each application but not necessarily the applicant's mailing address. However, if the option to omit the street or box number was not exercised on the application form, it has been published herein. Such applicants should realize that numerous mailings will follow from various dealers and other numismatic organizations that scan the monthly publication of applicants.

The Association cannot prevent such use of your address now and in the future. However, the ANA has not and will not release any applicants' or members' addresses at any time or for any purpose beyond this initial publication. Notices of changes of addresses of members are never published or released from headquarters.

AT A SUBSTANTIAL SAVINGS

AND, AT THE SAME TIME . . .
EARN A SUBSTANTIAL DONATION TO THE ANA BUILDING FUND

For a limited period ANA members may obtain a charter subscription at a 20% discount ($12 for a one-year subscription); or 33.3% discount ($20 for a two-year subscription). For each member who subscribes, MUSEUM magazine will make a sizeable contribution to the ANA building fund. Remittances for your subscription should be sent to the American Numismatic Association, P.O. Box 2366, Colorado Springs, Colorado 80901. For record purposes, the association will forward your funds to Museum magazine and checks should be made payable to the latter.

Everyone is searching for a good place to put his or her money. Obviously you have found yours or else you would not be looking for rare coins to buy. You and I both know rare coins are an excellent investment and lots of fun. More and more people are finding this out every day. But buying rare coins is not nearly as important as who you buy them from. We stand behind everything we sell, and are among the few if not the only dealers who guarantee their coins in writing. Give us a try and see why fast courteous service, realistic prices and honest grading make the difference.

Cunningham's invites your

NEW YORK SALE

To be held in conjunction with the Greater Westchester County Coin Convention.

June 19-20-21, 1981
at the Westchester County Center,
White Plains, New York... just minutes from New York City.

Here are some of the services and advantages you enjoy as a consignor to a Cunningham's auction:

- Competitive commission rate of 15% with no hidden charges.
- Pre-grading of important coins by our expert numismatists immediately upon arrival at our office at your request.
- After pre-grading, a company representative will call you to discuss the evaluation. Upon your approval of the evaluation a consignment contract will be mailed to you.
- Highly professional full-color auction catalogs of coins consigned. We photograph both the obverse and reverse of all plate coins, larger than actual size, and in full color.
- Extensive advertising and sales promotion through ads in major numismatic publications and direct mail to potential buyers.
- Best possible auction environment. Well organized lots and correctly graded coins.
- Active floor bidding. All floor bids compete with the mail bids.
- After the auction the buyer of your coins is promptly invoiced for them by mail.
- After the auction the seller is promptly sent a letter advising of the sale and the price received.

consignments to the fabulous

WESTCHESTER

An auspicious rare coin auction sale to be held in one of the wealthiest residential areas in the world

Cunningham's is truly pleased to be in charge of the prestigious New York-Westchester Sale. The Westchester County area is home to some of the richest people in the world, and to many of the world's most dedicated coin collectors. Naturally, we are anticipating a large turnout of very competitive buyers for all types of coins.

About Westchester County...

Flanked by the jagged coastline of Long Island Sound on the east and the indomitable Hudson on the west, the tapestry of Westchester is richly woven. Verdant hills abound, broken by meandering rivers and shimmering patches of blue. Surprisingly, in the cultural hub of the world, you can still find two rapidly shrinking commodities...space and time, Houses articulating a grandeur that is always dignified, never gaudy, sprawl over the rolling countryside, surrounded by spreading lawns and magnificent gardens.

Hotel accommodations are among the finest to be found anywhere, from the very plush and expensive to the very comfortable and moderate.

Cultural activities are plentiful in Westchester County, especially during the summer months, borrowing from the wealth of theatre, music and art talent in the New York area.

Sightseeing is a delight with many historical mansions and landmarks open to the public.

Antique lovers will be enthralled by all the shops and galleries in Westchester - some of the best in the world.

When you want to play there are activities to interest everyone; bicycling, tennis, golf, horseback riding, squash, racquetball, scuba diving, sailing and more.

And, if all this were not enough, just to the south of Westchester is New York...the most exciting city in the world.

Begin planning now to experience all this. Consign your coins to Cunningham's and participate in the fabulous New York-Westchester Sale this summer.

When you decide to sell, you want the highest possible price for your collection. So does Bowers & Ruddy Galleries.

We know how much time and money you have given to your collection, and we treat your property as though it were ours! We are working together to obtain the same result — high prices — since our commission is a percentage of the price which each lot brings.

Years of numismatic expertise go into the cataloguing of your coins. Unmatched photographic illustrations (color and black and white) of important pieces are placed right with the lots. We give you and your coins treatment of an uncompromising nature — to entice bidders to bid liberally.

Don't sell valuable rarities or choice type coins outright. Don't trust the big job of offering them to the collecting public to a little auction firm. If you do either, you will probably not get nearly what you should for your coins. Instead, consider for a moment the valuable qualities which are yours through a Bowers and Ruddy Galleries rare coin auction — qualities which can be yours for just a low commission rate.

Bowers & Ruddy Galleries, Inc.

IMMEDIATE CASH ADVANCES are available in any amount. There is no need to sell your property outright at less than you should receive, because we will gladly give you an instant cash advance the moment your consignment is accepted for auction.

COMPLETE PROTECTION FOR YOUR HOLDINGS. Your property is fully insured and protected in our bank vaults from the moment we receive it—and we will even send couriers to pick up your coins if your collection warrants it. A secure financial settlement following the sale is also guaranteed, for no auction service anywhere is more reliable than Bowers and Ruddy Galleries, a member of the billion-dollar-strong General Mills family of companies. Peace of mind is yours!

PROFESSIONAL REFERENCES. Our founders, James F. Ruddy (retired) and Q. David Bowers, are life members of the American Numismatic Association and are members of the Professional Numismatists Guild (Mr. Ruddy is a recipient of the PNG's Distinguished Service Award, and Mr. Bowers is a director of the PNG), the International Association of Professional Numismatists, the American Numismatic Society, the Royal Numismatic Society of London, and other leading organizations worldwide. Both are widely known for their research and writings in the field of numismatics, including best-selling books on coin grading and investing.

THE BEST POSSIBLE PRICES for your rarities and choice type coins are the result of our famous numismatic expertise, our research into varieties, our superbly illustrated auction catalogues, and our extensive advertising for each auction. THERE IS NO FINER AUCTION SERVICE!

Join the group of satisfied Bowers & Ruddy Galleries consignors next time you decide to sell your collection or significant single rarities (minimum consignment $2000). You owe it to yourself to consider the sale of your coins carefully — so, fill out the coupon below and we'll send you our informative brochure, "How to Sell Your Coins for the Best Price," or call our auction department or Q. The Coins that Sold Sarsaparilla

From Inventory Selections™
January, 1981

"While trying to expand my early U.S. currency collection, I came across an encased postage stamp. I've been told this unusual piece was at one time accepted as U.S. coinage. Do you know its history?" — J.N., San Diego, CA

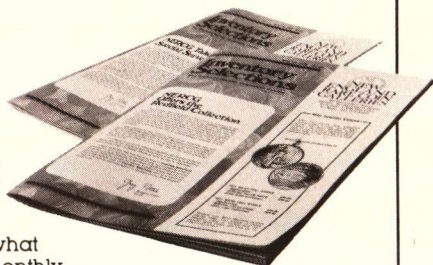

Bob Bernier

Encased postage stamps, of interest to both numismatic and philatelic collectors, were used as pocket change for a brief period during the Civil War. At this time, government coins, particularly silver, were being hoarded and the public economy was flooded with counterfeit checks, tokens and other substitutes. Citizens demanded protection from these worthless mediums of exchange and on July 17, 1862, President Abraham Lincoln authorized the use of postage stamps as currency.

Unfortunately, postage stamps were flimsy and hard to handle. To remedy this, John Gault, a Boston inventor, developed a patent for encasing stamps in round brass frames with clear mica covers. Gault distributed his encased stamps through the Scovill Company of Waterbury, Connecticut, who sold them to merchants. The merchants often placed advertising messages on the backs of the brass enclosures. For example, J.C. Ayer, a patent medicine promoter from Lowell, Massachusetts, used the stamps to promote his Cathartic Pills and Sarsaparilla. Meanwhile, the Treasury Department took action by ...

A special message from Q. David Bowers

I have just completed one of the greatest experiences of my life: cataloguing the fourth sale of the Garrett Collection. As you know from reading the headlines, the first three Garrett sales held in 1979 and 1980 made numismatic history. The 1787 Brasher Doubloon sold at $725,000 in November, 1979, and stands today as the highest price ever paid for a rare coin of any kind at unrestricted public auction sale. The three sales have realized a record total of $22.7 million. And, there is one more sale to come!

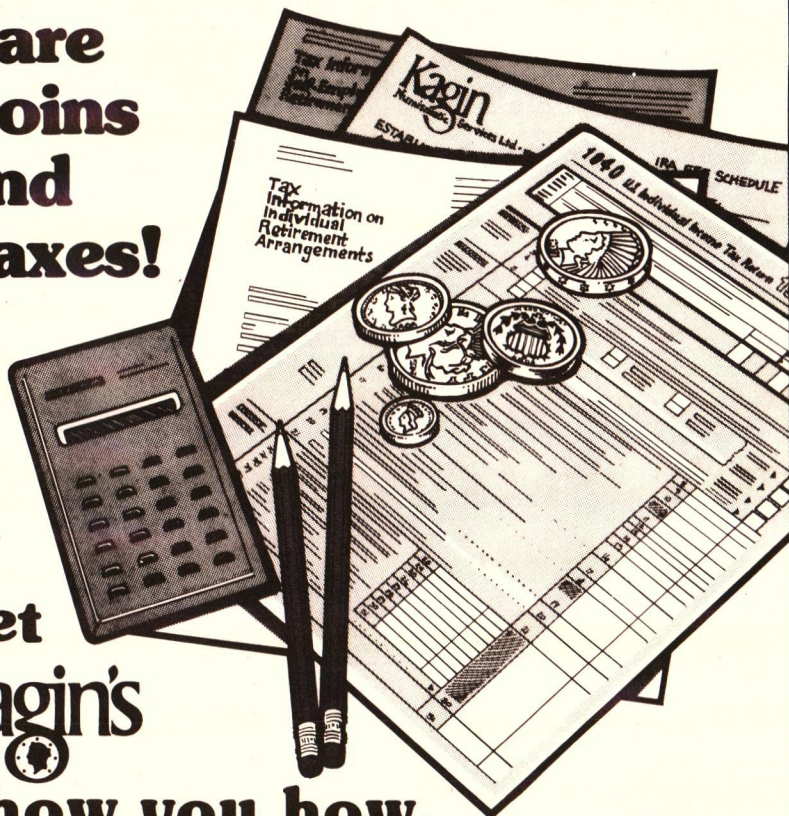

The fourth Garrett Sale, which will contain hundreds of lots offered individually for unreserved and unrestricted bidding, is like opening a window on the numismatic scene a century ago. Present in depth, variety, and quality are the 'rarest of the rare' and 'greatest of the great' numismatic items — the legendary token, medal, and other rarities.

This sale, the one I just finished cataloguing, is a collector's dream come true. Among the rare and important pieces are the nine different 1792 United States mint pattern issues — the largest and finest group ever auctioned. Then follows in the sale a unique 1792 birch cent in white metal, with G.W.Pt. on the reverse (for 'George Washington, President'). Sure to attract world-wide attention is the highlight of the final Garrett Collection sale: the only known example of the 1787 Brasher Doubloon with the hallmark EB on the eagle's breast.

A huge collection of Washington tokens and medals will be offered, including the unique 1818 Chowder Club medal in gold, and a silver 1795 Indian Peace medal. Other items to cross the auction block include one of the largest and most extensive collections of California small denominations of gold ever to be sold, gold and silver ingots of the American West, miscellaneous medals pertaining to Colonial America, Confederate States of America coinage, paper money, fractional currency, and many other items of interest to the connoisseur and specialist.

Only a limited number of the catalogue to this spectacular sale are being printed. These are available for $10 each if ordered before the sale. If any remain after the sale, they will be priced at $20 each. I make this guarantee: if after receiving the Garrett Sale catalogue you do not find it to be the most numismatically interesting and numismatically informative auction catalogue you have ever read, keep the catalogue, write me a note personally, and I will refund the $10 paid. Never before has a catalogue of this importance been issued. And, never will an equivalent catalogue be issued again. So, if you want one, now is the time to write. Send your request to Garrett Catalogue (Dept. NU), Bowers & Ruddy Galleries, Suite 600, 6922 Hollywood Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90028.

ADMIRAL VERNON MEDALS

Probably no event in British history aroused as much admiration and national joy as Admiral William Vernon's capture of the harbor of Porto Bello with a fleet of six ships, in 1739. Some 160 different medals were circulated commemorating this and later feats of the daring Vernon. These were worn, used as playthings, card and store counters and circulated as money in England and, most likely, in this hemisphere as well. Washington's home, "Mount Vernon", is named after the Admiral and Lawrence Washington took part in one of the expeditions. The following are catalogued according to C. Wyllys Betts' authoritative tome "American Colonial History Illustrated by Contemporary Medals".

ASK FOR OUR CURRENT PRICE LIST

WHILE THE SELECT IS BEING SELECTED...

WE ARE BUSY LOOKING FOR THE GOOD BUYS.

SURE, WE LIKE THE THOUGHT of dealing in nothing but flawless MS 68 material. But, let's face it, not only is the supply of this type of quality extremely thin, but the price it brings can border on astronomical. Consequently, one can expect to look and look and pay and pay.

TEN YEARS AGO we would wholeheartedly agree that superb quality coins were, investment-wise, the best road to travel. Such quality was also in a price range where it could be collected instead of saved up for. This is 1981, however, and times have changed.

IT IS NOT OUR CONTENTION that gem material is now a bad investment or the wrong thing to collect. Nothing could be further from the truth. Buying the best your budget will allow is still sound advice. We would only like to point out that, among the other 99.99 per cent of the coin population, there are many fascinating, highly collectible and potentially profitable items out there, most at an affordable price.

NORTH DALLAS NUMISMATICS buys and sells quality coins. The term quality, of course, varies from series to series and, often, from date to date. But to believe that a coin has to be virtually perfect or even uncirculated to be considered quality is indeed a myth.

WE ARE EAGER BUYERS of original, medium to high grade, problem free United States coinage minted before the twentieth century. Just ship for our generous offer. If you are looking for accurately graded, consistent quality coins for your collection or portfolio, please write for our free monthly listing.

The following coins have been set aside exclusively for this advertisement:

Colonial 1788 Massachusetts Cent with period Fine 15	125
Three Cent Nickel 1881 Proof 63, full proof brilliance, original and hairline free. Minor spotting.	850
Reeded Edge Half 1837 VF 30, blue and gold iridescence	125
Walking Liberty Half 1929-S MS 63, excellent luster and surfaces. Virtual gem quality and a good buy.	1050
One Dollar Gold 1849-O AU 50, considerable mint frost	450
1925 Norse American Centennial Medal (thick) MS 63	100

How we make it easy to get top prices for your rare coins.

Rare coins bring top prices at auctions. Especially at auctions like the one we're having on May 22 and 23 in Dallas where literally hundreds of bidders will vie for coins.

But at Steve Ivy Numismatic Auctions, we make selling your coins more than profitable. We make it easy.

•Sending in your coins.

Most coins can be conveniently shipped by registered mail. Simply send us your coins securely wrapped and packaged with an itemized inventory. They're insured for their full value from the time we receive them at our offices until you receive your money.

If your collection warrants, we'll even fly to your city to pick up your coins.

•Pre-grading, commissions and advancements.

Steve Ivy Numismatic Auctions offers competitive commission rates with no buyers' charge. As an exclusive service, we also offer pre-grading on major items. At your request, a company representative will call you to let you know the grade your coins will be offered for at auction. While you are under no obligation to consign your coins, should you decide to do so, a consignment contract listing a complete inventory and sales commission agreed upon is mailed to you.

At that point, Steve Ivy Numismatic Auctions can offer you a generous cash advance of up to 50 percent of the value of your consigned coins.

Selected as the official 1980 and 1982 A.N.A. Auctioneer.

•How we catalog your coins.

Each Steve Ivy Numismatic Auctions' catalog is filled with crystal-clear, full-color reproductions and detailed descriptions of accurately graded coins. By showing your coins at their best, we insure that they will bring the best possible prices.

•How we reach potential buyers.

Approximately four weeks after the consignment deadline, the catalog is mailed first-class to our national audience of prospective buyers. The catalogs are also distributed at major coin conventions.

In addition, national advertisements in publications like Coin World, The Numismatist and The Wall Street Journal increase the number of mail and floor bidders to give you more prospective buyers.

•The auction sale.

All Steve Ivy Numismatic Auctions are structured to create the best possible environment for both the buyer and the seller. Lots are well organized and the sales are run efficiently. This increases your chances of receiving the highest possible prices for your coins.

•Your payment.

Two working days after the sale, the buyer of your coins is invoiced for them, and the letter is sent to you advising you of the sale and of the prices your coins realized.

Within 45 days after the sale, you are paid for the coins you have sold, by whatever method you choose. Check, gold bullion, or rare coins.

•What makes Steve Ivy Numismatic Auctions different?

Steve Ivy Numismatic Auctions is a full-service auction company. It's a company thousands of accomplished numismatists depend on for professionalism, honesty and expertise.

Little wonder then that we were chosen as Auctioneer for the record-breaking 1980 American Numismatic Association Auction held in August. Or that we've been chosen official Auctioneer for the 1982 A.N.A. auction in Boston.

When you want to sell rare coins, depend on us. We'll help make consigning your rare coins both simple and profitable. Every time.

For information on consigning coins in our May 22-23 auction, call Mark Feld or Bob Merrill toll free, (800) 527-9250. In Texas call (214) 742-1079.

Or send us your coins. We'll notify you upon their arrival.

It is true of cigars, and even more so of coins. The increasing value of superb quality coins is outpacing almost every conventional form of investment.

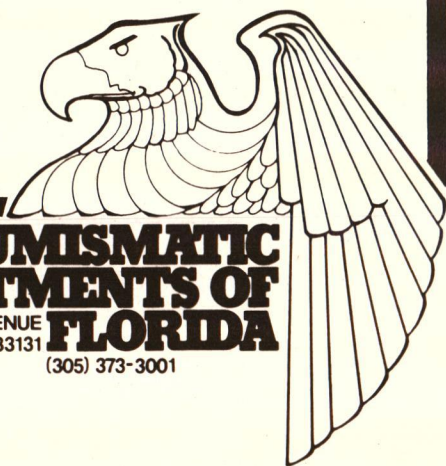

N.I.O.F. deals exclusively in the finest quality United States coins in the market. We strongly believe that the enduring strength of the coin market is found in the best quality coins. Granted, superb quality is harder than ever to come by, but there in lies the essence of true investing.

If you are a serious numismatic investor/collector, and you seek the best, then seek out the best in quality and source.

CRISWELL RELEASES "PAPER PAPER"

A remarkable 104-page, four-section, tabloid newspaper size price list has just been released by Colonel Grover Criswell.

Billed as the "Cavalcade of Paper Money, Stocks, Bonds and Paper Memorabilia," the fixed price list from the Ft. McCoy, Fla., dealer must surely rank as the largest offering of paper currency and related items ever made to collectors.

The list even bears a 100 entry index to everything from topical notes to marriage licenses, souvenir sheets and even famous paintings used as bank note vignettes.

Opening with the best-known Criswell specialty, Confederate and Southern States notes, and bonds, the list continues on a state-by-state basis, offering notes, stocks, bonds, checks and other collectibles grouped together in one listing for each state.

A large part of the price list's third section is given over to items of interest to collectors of railroadiana—notes, stocks, bonds, checks, posters, warrants, etc. That section also includes a good selection of numismatic books and books related to some of the more popular topical collecting themes. The remainder of the third section is given over to original historical documents from Confederate and Southern States military and civil authorities and many items dealing with slavery. There are also Civil War items and even a selection of 19th Century song sheets.

The fourth section of the list offers U.S. currency, some interesting Treasury Department documents, souvenir cards and a wide selection of U.S. and worldwide stocks and bonds.

For only $1.00, readers who are not currently Criswell customers may request a copy of the price list from the firm at Criswell's, Ft. McCoy, FL 32637.

WRITE YOUR OWN CHECK!

Every year for the past 20 years, thousands of collectors, investors and other dealers have found that Robert Hughes has offered the highest prices for their material. As a matter of fact, we estimate that 75% of our purchases are being made from other dealers. This means you can usually get more by dealing directly with us!

We don't dream of large coin purchases. We are constantly making them.

Other dealers indicate that they want to spend a million dollars a month. We are! And we want more. We can pay immediately for individual rarities or collections valued at $1,000,000... $5,000,000... and up! The transaction is completely confidential... and you can be paid cash if you wish.

If you prefer, you can choose to consign your coins to one of our frequent major public auctions. Our commission rate is low, and you can obtain a generous cash advance.

If you hear of an important collection that may be for sale, let us know. Robert Hughes Enterprises pays substantial finders fees on consumated transactions.

Please call us in confidence on our toll free number (800) 421-0588, except in California, call collect at (213) 278-4950. Ask for Bob Hughes or Jules Hupper.

Sorry... We are not interested in buying gold or silver bullion or bullion coins (e.g. Krugerrands, bags of common silver coins, etc).

Simply Simons.

When you finally get around to investing in rare coins, there is but one alternative: M.B. Simons and Associates, Ltd.

At M.B. SIMONS & ASSOCIATES, LTD., we have been in the main-stream of numismatic professionalism for over fifteen years, and our firm is steadily growing. We are one of the most firmly established rare coin corporations in the United States, and we aren't shy about flaunting our credentials; life members of the American Numismatic Association, members of the Professional Numismatists' Guild, the American Numismatic Society, and the Numismatic Literary Guild, as well as all major state, regional and educational organizations. From our headquarters outside Philadelphia we do business around the world and last year Krause Publications (producers of Numismatic News and other noteworthy publications) presented us their "Customer Service Award" for high business standards.

Although we do not claim to be the only noteworthy numismatic investment firm, we are recognized as one the best, and we believe our program is unique and worthy of your consideration.

In a word, we are flexible. Most major coin companies promote programs in which clients are required to subscribe to a regimen of fixed monthly payments. We do not offer such a plan because we feel it leads to certain abuses, and clients wind up with coins they neither want nor enjoy. Our method is to work with you as an individual, in terms of your own investment goals and needs. Only then will we supply you with investment grade material to meet those needs.

Your investment is ultimately your own decision, and should reflect your own taste and intelligence as a result. We are here to advise you and to help locate the right coins for you at the right price. In so doing we have been instrumental in assembling some of the finest numismatic collections in the United States and abroad.

Our coin catalogues and fixed price lists are a guide for you, but your choices are by no means limited to the items we have in inventory. We are, after all, dealers in recognized rarities, and they are not as easily located as a block of common stock! We will gladly locate a particular piece for you if it is available, and we will be pleased to represent you at all major numismatic auctions.

We feel our research department is the best in the business. Our well trained, professional staff spends many hours each week researching price histories and current trends — constantly looking for the undervalued market areas that will provide you with the best possible investment material. In addition, we employ Certified Public Accountants who will gladly advise you on the numismatic investment of private funds, corporate pension plans, Keogh programs, or estate planning.

Coins and medals – a field where the past has a bright future!

As a reader of this ad, it's probably not just the value and appearance of gold- and silvercoins and medals that interest you. You'll also want to know where to buy and sell coins – individual specimens or complete collections.

The Numismatic Department of Swiss Bank Corporation Basle offers you a wide range of coins and medals from earlier historical periods right up to the present day. You can rely on the expert advice of our coin specialists just as you can rely on finding us represented at leading sales and conventions throughout the world.

We also hold auctions of our own once or twice a year. Consignments of single pieces or entire collections are always welcome, and we are glad to help you with any questions.

Just ask for our auction catalogs and price lists with items fitting each and every budget.

Here is what we are able to provide:

1. Unlimited instant cash (confidential, of course, if you wish).
2. Bank references available. (Contact Mr. Bill Whitsitt at Citizens National Bank, 2001 Bryan Tower, Dallas.)
3. Call us Toll Free at (800) 527-9045, or in Texas call collect at (214) 748-4044, if you desire to sell a large collection. Or you may ship your collection with invoice to Mike Follett, Plaza Level, One Main Place, Dallas, TX 75250. Within 24 to 48 hours, you will receive our generous offer by return mail.

Should you decide not to sell your collection we will return your coins immediately upon hearing from you. Naturally, the coins will be fully insured, and we will pay all postage. Through this method, you risk absolutely nothing.

4. Should you have an extremely large collection, we can and will be at your home, office, or bank anywhere in the U.S.A. within 24 hours of your call.
5. We are prepared to buy your entire collection, not just the choice material.
6. You are selling to a coin retailer, not someone who sells to another dealer. This is so important. Consequently, you will receive the highest possible price.
7. The company you will be dealing with is well known and respected throughout the numismatic world. Backed with over 30 years of experience in buying, selling, and grading coins, MIKE FOLLETT RARE COIN CO. has established itself as a leader in the numismatic fraternity.

To conclude, take advantage of our policy. It is a service that thousands of satisfied customers have found profitable and safe. We sincerely believe that we can go further in meeting your individual needs than any other buying program offered today.

Your Money and Time Deserve Our Money and Time ... and a Lot More ...

After years of effort, dollars, and hours of study, you have managed to put together a collection of rare and quality coins of which you can be proud. Certainly, your collection is worth a lot more today than it was when you first began. So, why not spend a little more time considering the best method of sale.

Superior Galleries can insure that your coins will bring the highest realized prices possible.

CONSIDER THESE ADVANTAGES:

- * Superior entered the field of numismatics in 1930. Where else can you get 47 years of experience?
- * We are a financially sound corporation, prepared to provide generous cash advancements at the time of consignment.
- * Your collection, while stored in our vaults, is fully insured at all times.
- * With the use of our extensive Numismatic Library, containing over 2,000 volumes, your coins will be expertly catalogued by a staff of professionals who are more than just familiar with your type of collection.
- * We know the importance of quality photographs in assisting mail bidders, we therefore use more photographs than most European or Domestic auction firms.
- * Our auctions are strategically planned around major numismatic events to insure that our sessions are well attended.
- * Our mailing list has been carefully developed and closely screened to provide our consignment with qualified anxious buyers who are prepared to pay realistic prices for quality coins.
- * The promotion of our auction sale begins with the first consignment we receive. Our spacious location in Beverly Hills provides a most comfortable atmosphere and allows every floor bidder the opportunity to view the lots at least three months prior to our sale. We personally contact our active buyers and provide private viewing of your coins.
- * Most importantly, after the sale is over and you have reaped your financial rewards for all of the years you have spent building your collection, our catalog becomes your catalog ... A permanent record of all that you have achieved in numismatics.

We, at Superior Galleries, are certain that our method of auction sale is the finest available and we have proved it to our consignors. Now, we want to prove it to you. We will be happy to provide you with all of the information you will need as well as a past auction catalog and prices realized so you may judge for yourself.

The Professional Numismatists Guild is the leading organization in the United States which restricts its membership to dealers who possess and demonstrate these three essential qualifications: KNOWLEDGE of the subject arising from extensive experience; RESPONSIBILITY to sell only fully authenticated and accurately described items of numismatic value; and INTEGRITY in assuring the buyer of a safe, honest, and mutually satisfying transaction.

1. A minimum of 21 years of age and 5 years as a full-time professional numismatist.

2. A minimum of $100,000 in numismatic assets.
3. Agreement to the PNG's strict Code of Ethics.
4. Screening by the PNG's Board of Directors.
5. Financial and character scrutiny by an outside firm.
6. Acceptance by ballot of the entire PNG membership.
7. Agreement to submit to legally binding arbitration to settle any dispute between a buyer and a PNG-member dealer.

A free catalogue of the nearly 200 PNG member dealers is yours free upon application to the Executive Secretary.

SALES ON COMMISSION

CONSIGN YOUR COINS TO SEABY
AND PAY ONLY 15% COMMISSION ON THE SELLING PRICE.

Seaby is a household name in the coin and medal business. Seaby's Coin & Medal Bulletin has a wider circulation than almost any other numismatic list or auction catalogue. Although our business is mainly buying and selling coins and medals outright, collectors and dealers may be interested in selling individual items or collections through Seaby on commission at 15%. The 15% covers:

- (1) Offering your items to our extensive clientele through our want lists.
- (2) Expert listing in the Coin & Medal Bulletin by one of our 18 specialist numismatists.
- (3) Full insurance coverage.

Clients are asked to consign items to us for a minimum of three months. Items over approx. $600 will be illustrated free. A charge of approx. $20 is incurred if an illustrated item remains unsold and is returned to the vendor.

We will give advice on the pricing of material. In the interest of our retail clients, we reserve the right to refuse items which we feel to be over-valued by the vendor or in any way unsuitable.

If you would like to see our Coin & Medal Bulletin, write for a complimentary copy.

Feel free to write if you have any questions to:

MYLAR SOURCE

Stops Coin Oxidation! Stops Currency Fading!

Damaging coin oxidation and currency fading caused by "Ultra Violet Rays" from sunlight or fluorescent light is prevented by the use of Mylar. DuPont Mylar is the most dimensionally stable of all plastics. Mylar cannot be torn, contains no plasticizer as in acetate to migrate from film causing deterioration, brittleness, or yellowing. It is unaffected by water, moisture vapor, oils, greases, most acids, alkalis and solvents. At last—Coin and Currency Protection! We now have "failsafe DuPont Mylar, clear lined" coin Flip-Lines. Each comes with information card. No staples or cardboard. Coins are locked in by clear Mylar flap; coins do not touch vinyl.

#202E—Eze Flips—2" x 2", card inserts & Mylar lined V-Film, $2.95/25 pcs.; $4.25/50 pcs.; $7.95/100 pcs. and labels.

#203V—2" x 2" V-Film envelopes with flap and Mylar lined. $2.95/25 pcs.; $4.25/50 pcs.; $7.95/100 pcs.

DuPont Mylar liners only (#22L)

We now have Mylar liner inserts for your own holders. Use in 2" x 2" vinyl, Eze Flips, paper or other. Use for ultimate long term protection against harmful Ultra-Violet light. 100 pcs./$4.95; 500/$20.95; 1000/$37.95. All with anti-fallout security flap, includes white labels.

100% Dupont Mylar Coin Envelopes

#122A - 2" x 2" envelopes with flap. Clear, strong, .003 mil. Mylar sealed at edges with Mylar strip, $4.95/25 pcs.; $9.50/50 pcs.; $17.95/100 pcs. All with 3/8" x 1 1/4" labels. How much is it worth to have complete protection for valuable coins?

100% DuPont Mylar currency holders with labels

#213KT—large currency Mylar 7 3/4" x 3 3/4", $4.95/25 pcs.; $7.95/50 pcs.; $13.95/100 pcs. and labels.

#214JT—standard size Mylar, $3.95/25 pcs.; $7.25/50 pcs.; $12.95/100 pcs. and labels.

#215LT—fractional size Mylar, $3.95/25 pcs.; $6.95/50 pcs.; $11.95/100 pcs.

Products of Imagination and Innovation for Coin and Currency Protection. We have long thought quality coin and currency protection housing as a necessity consistent with today's values. We will send DuPont Mylar samples and lists of items for sale for $1.50 or same in postage stamps (our partial cost) by mail only! Many sizes available.

Please send ample postage!

GOOD ADVICE.

The reports listed below are just a sample of the good advice subscribers to David Hall's INSIDE VIEW have received during the past two years. These reports are available individually at the prices indicated below. Try a sample report and see what one of the country's most active and knowledgeable rare coin dealers has to say.

Special Report No. 1 TEN NUMISMATIC FACTS OF LIFE

Our most important and most popular report. David Hall's no-holds barred look at rare coin investing. Includes a look at auctions, grading, dealer knowledge, how to sell coins, relative value and dealer mark-ups. A must for all rare coin investors. 5.00

Special Report No. 4 AN IN-DEPTH REPORT ON COIN GRADING

Issue Twelve of the INSIDE VIEW. A 7-page report on coin grading. Examines the prevalence of overgrading. Includes grading techniques and series by series list of coin high points. Also suggests strategies to use to get your money back from the "rip-off" artists. 5.00

Special Report No. 6 PROOFLIKE DOLLARS

Issue Fourteen of the INSIDE VIEW. An in-depth look at the Prooflike Morgan dollar market. Includes price predictions and specific buying recommendations. Also includes tips on how to grade Prooflike dollars. 5.00

Special Report No. 7 MERCURY DIMES

Issue Fifteen of the INSIDE VIEW. An in-depth look at the rarity and future price potential of full band Mercury dimes. Includes a date-by-date analysis and relative rarity and "quality premium" charts. 5.00

Special Report No. 8 31 YEAR PRICE HISTORY OF GEM QUALITY COINS

A 41-page report analyzing the price performance of the major U.S. coin series between 1950 and 1980. Over 12,000 prices and percentages!!! Tremendous insight into today's market conditions and some startling conclusions! 10.00

Special Report No. 9 50% INCREASE IN RARE COIN PRICES IN 1981

Issue Sixteen of the INSIDE VIEW. A review of 1980 and a preview of 1981 including the reasons why prices for GEM quality rare coins will rise 50% in the next twelve months. 5.00

ORDER THESE REPORTS INDIVIDUALLY OR GET THEM FREE WITH YOUR SUBSCRIPTION TO THE INSIDE VIEW

David Hall's INSIDE VIEW is a monthly rare coin investment advisory. Each issue contains an in-depth report (similar to those listed above) on selective areas of importance to all rare coin investors. Each issue also contains David Hall's "10 Best Bets for Short Term Potential" and a short analysis of action in all important areas of the coin market. Besides the monthly INSIDE VIEW, subscribers can get the following special services:

1. Free phone consultations
2. Weekly phone message
3. Coin selling service
4. GEM QUALITY coin buying service
5. Keogh and pension plan assistance

SHOREHAM ENTERPRISES

NEEDS YOUR COINS

and will pay high prices to get them. If you're reading this ad, chances are you have coins to sell. If so, you've come to the right place. We are in desperate need of all numismatic items for both our mail order and our new retail outlet. Our credentials are unquestioned in the coin industry (we've advertised in Coin World for the last sixteen years.) Our check is the fastest in the East. Just ship your coins (insured or registered) and our offer, in the form of a check, will rocket back to you the same day your package arrives. And we mean the same day (not an annoying 2 or 3 weeks later).

(For fast service, please include your phone number.)

Should you decide not to accept our offer (which seldom happens), we will pay shipping costs both ways. We can use just about anything, from half cents to $50 slugs, paper money, foreign coins, from one coin to complete collections or accumulations, in all grades. Be it $20 or $500,000, we're interested. If you feel a personal visit is necessary, one of our representatives will come to you, at your convenience. Please feel free to call us collect anytime to discuss your holdings. Certified check or cash is always available and all dealings are strictly confidential. Our bank reference is the Republic National Bank of New York, New York City. Walter Cooper, Vice-President.

We do not buy bulk silver out of state!

(We reserve the right to reject any coin unconditionally.)

SOUND ADVICE IS WORTH THE PRICE

You CAN buy experience! Ours. Now, in our 52nd year as professional numismatists, we are helping more and more collectors and dealers, too, with their numismatic problems.

Be it buying or selling, estate planning or taxes, or just plain sound advice, the problems are coming to the “doctor,” the professional’s professional.

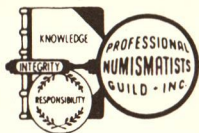

It takes a long time to chalk up 52 years of experience. We have it and you can reap the benefits. It may well be your best numismatic investment.

Banknote Case

Paper money collecting is becoming an extremely popular hobby around the World with great investment potential. This version of the Banknote case incorporates a combination lock and a deluxe finish, and has been carefully designed to make best use of all available space. Several thousand banknotes can be accommodated, loose notes in the right-hand unit (measuring 21 x 32cm) which has five separate compartments, and album leaves in the left. Each compartment may be removed, and they provide a useful method of displaying notes at fairs, etc. Beneath the ring-binder section is a 4 cm deep "secret" compartment for storing large books or private papers. Again, the lid is fitted with attachments for adding other accessories, and will also accomodate magazines, catalogues, etc.

Description:

Height 15 cm. Length 53 cm.

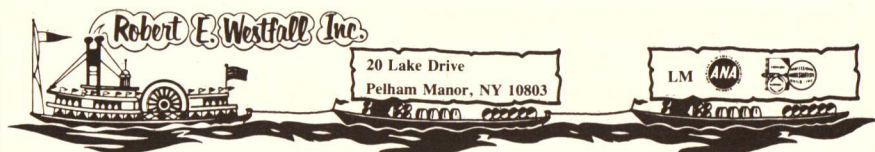

Width 36 cm.

Finished in high quality grained imitation leather (red) and lined in beige. Specially reinforced corners, combination lock, with two additional catches.

Order No: Banknote case G 20

NEW LOWER PRICES

Hopes of realizing inflated catalog values resulted in an abnormally large number of California Small Denomination Gold pieces appearing on the market during the last nine months. This has depressed prices and as a result my new price list below features dramatically lower prices. I believe the market is at a buying juncture unlikely to be repeated as this selling binge ends and new pieces appear on the market much less frequently. All California Small Denomination Gold is scarce with only about 12,000 pieces in existence divided among over 500 varieties.

With a stock of over 800 pieces, I can fill most requests. However, accurately graded MS-65's are quite rare. The least expensive coins are popular and orders will sometimes be filled with higher grade pieces with damage reducing them to an effective VF. Multiple orders will be filled with different varieties. If a particular coin-grade combination is not in stock, a lower grade but rarer piece may be substituted. Prices are for common varieties and types issued after 1856. The early dates and rare varieties and types carry higher values and will be featured in future price lists. Satisfaction is guaranteed. There is a 30-day no question return privilege as long as the coins have not been removed from their original holder. I invite comparison.

Buy prices are 50-75% of these prices depending on stock.

Grading is strict and according to ANA standards. Personal checks from new customers must clear. Wisconsin residents add 4% sales tax. Price includes postage. Layaways available at 2% interest on the unpaid balance per month with the principal refundable at any time in full. It is my practice to offer a wholesale 10% discount to any customer who buys 5 or more coins at one time. Trades acceptable. Tokens also bought and sold but at much lower prices.

October 11, 1978 was a bad day for some auctioneers.

It was the day Spink ran their first ever coin auction. And what an outstanding success it was, totalling £264,000.

The record prices that were realised reflected the high quality of coins that we offered for sale.

It was just the start of something big. Because Spink Coin Auctions have gone from strength to strength.

We now hold auctions in London, Sydney and Zurich. They have all been very successful. Including the finest collection of modern Greek coins ever offered for sale. And the most important collection of English coins offered for 20 years.

That sale saw the world record price for a penny broken twice in two days.

Our rapid rise to the top of the coin auction league took some people by surprise. But those who knew Spink to be the world's leading coin dealers knew it was only a matter of time before they became the world's leading coin auctioneers.

Spink Coin Auctions are here to stay.

WE BUY ANTIQUES AND SELL "JUNK"

We Buy Junk . . . and Sell Antiques!

So much for jokes. Our position is that we buy and sell collectible coins, sometimes offhandedly called "junk" because they are not expensive coins. Our reward comes in the fact that we sell collectible coins to individuals who enjoy them for what they really are; artistic mediums of trade, chronicles of history, and something to not only enjoy but to preserve. This versus the thrust of many who sell only highpriced items (i.e. choice, beautiful, magnificent, outstanding, bloomers, mintstate 70+, etc.) to investors who can only see coins as investment tools or profits. We have endeavored to supply the average person who can't or won't spend $300+ per coin with fairly priced, correctly graded coins for his collecting enjoyment. As your collection grows we try to keep pace, and also aid the start of the next group of collectors. Our ultimate goal has always been to have our customers eventually become our friends and share with them the enjoyment of the numismatic hobby. Because we deal in the type of merchandise that retails comparatively low, some like to label us "junk" dealers; not because our merchandise is literally junk, but because each coin is not in excess of a few hundred dollars or some high-powered rarity.

We viewed the market from its start in the 1850's when dealers like Ed Cogan rode the first boom of the U.S. collectors market in the 1860's. Yet, it was almost a hundred years later (between 1940 and 1950) before availability and collector demand began to shape and dictate the current price guidelines and structure that basically remain the same today, with the exception of a higher pricing range. This was also the same time that commemorative coins flooded the market; a collector inspired issue which initially met with varied success and failure. The point being though, that the collector was beginning to become a force felt by the government, who again was issuing proof sets (1950) with greater production quotas than ever before to meet the newly established collecting demand. With the freeing of gold by our government in 1973-74, the start of the current phase and boom of the market began. Silver rose, riding the "gold fever" wave and itself proved to be more of a factor to the collector, whereas gold played more the culprit to the investor.

Viewing the market with a culmination of opinions and facts has led us to believe that silver has had more to do with collectors coins; and the fact that they are becoming more and more out of reach to the average collector. The common half dollar, once a 75¢ coin, now tops $5 because of its "melt value." This is not to forget how often the seemingly capricious whims of the silver market have upset whole pricing indexes of silver related issues.

We concluded after studying the long and short avenues and the history of the current market that the present down trend in the collectors market has been incited by the constant harrassment of the sporadic silver market. Furthermore, to face the current situation, which is unprecedented in modern coin history, we have had to make adjustments and open new avenues of operation within our firm to serve the public.

We started this article kidding ourselves a little about the mail-order coin business that we've been proud of operating, and we intend to continue this service in a more structured fashion. However, we will be taking several new directions and would like to encourage you to participate by writing to us, or, if more urgent, giving us a call. These three listings are new areas we are immediately concentrating on:

1. WE ARE BUYING VERY SERIOUSLY . . . We have shifted our inventory substantially in the past few months and are definitely interested in restocking many areas and can make immediate payments on graded merchandise. Write, call or just bundle and ship for a firm offer and fast 24 hour payment. We'll travel, too!

2. SOLICITING YOUR WANT LISTS . . . This will be a completely new facet for us. Though we have done it in the past successfully, we moved away from it three years ago. Remember, we still maintain a huge inventory of U.S. coins and we travel constantly, maintaining your want list and keeping in touch. Don't forget about our layaway plan.

3. WE WANT YOU! We will still be handling mail order, and cordially invite you who haven't already joined our mailing list to do so by sending us a post card with your name, address and zip code.

Thank you.

CONSIGNMENTS WANTED

When you sell your coins, you naturally want to receive as much as possible for them. The best way to accomplish this is to sell your coins at a Paramount auction. We have been a major force in the rare coin auction field for nearly 20 years and during that time we have conducted many important and memorable sales. If you are considering selling at auction, we ask that you compare our service with any other. In particular, our complete auction service offers you:

- Superb cataloging including accurate grading and descriptions, in-depth research, and the finest photography in the field.
- A history of record prices for many years.
- Low commission rates (see schedule below).
- A friendly, expert staff of professionals to assist you and make your selling experience a profitable and pleasurable one.
- Prompt consignor settlements no later than 45 days after the date of the sale.
- No commission charged to successful bidders (which could reduce the amount your coins realize).
- Full insurance on your coins while they are in our possession.
- Cash Advances if desired.

Commission Schedule

Total Value of Coins Consigned	Rate

Think seriously about less—than—perfect type coins

LET'S LOOK AT THE 19th AND EARLY 20th CENTURY TYPE COINS

These have always been a favorite and are continuing to be more popular. Brilliant uncirculated type coins have shown outstanding growth in the past few years.

In our opinion high grade type coins are overdue for a substantial increase in price.

The reason we feel this way is due to the big spread between extremely fine, about uncirculated and brilliant uncirculated type coins.

HERE ARE A FEW EXAMPLES:

Trade Dollars in extremely fine $95.00, nice sharp about uncirculated $250.00, MS60 (uncirculated) $800.00, MS65 brilliant uncirculated $6,000.00 and in proof the price of a new cadillac.

Flying Eagle Cents Extremely fine $60.00, about uncirculated $175.00, uncirculated $350.00, brilliant uncirculated $1,400.00

Barber Dimes, Quarters and Halves can be bought in XF—AU for a fraction of BU prices. The same holds true for seated, liberty, bust coins, three cent pieces, two cent pieces, half dimes and others.

What I am getting at is that you can buy slightly less than perfect coins and still have a desirable selection of coins at a fraction of the price.

CARTHAGE

Renowned for its struggles with Rome, Carthage was founded in the 8th century B.C. by Phoenicians from Tyre. From the 6th through the 3rd centuries B.C. the Carthaginians dominated trade in the western Mediterranean, but it is noteworthy that they made no use of coined money until their great invasion of Sicily in the late 5th century B.C. In the mid 4th century, Carthage began issuing gold staters, which after 320 B.C. became progressively debased. This transformation to electrum becomes especially noticeable after 310 B.C. as the gold content was reduced to between 55 and 60%.

We are pleased to offer several specimens of this important and interesting coinage below. All are from a small hoard and are ascribed to the period 310-290 B.C. The standard reference work cited is Carthaginian Gold and Electrum Coins by G.K. Jenkins and R.B. Lewis (London, 1963).

1. CARTHAGE: 310-290 B.C. Electrum Shekel (or Didrachm). Head of Tanit l., dot in front. Rv. Horse standing l. on double exergual line; dot in field before front hooves. 7.61 grams. Jenkins-Lewis Group V, 252. Virtually Extra Fine $2000.00
2. Electrum Shekel. Similar types. 7.53 grams. J-L 254. Choice Very Fine $1750.00
3. Electrum Shekel. Types as above, but no dots on obverse or reverse. Horse stands on single exergual line. 7.63 grams. J-L 254. Nice style on a broad flan. Traces of North African dirt in devices. Virtually Extra Fine $2000.00
4. Electrum Shekel. Similar types, but dot in front of head on obverse and below exergual line on reverse. 7.48 grams. J-L 257. Nice Very Fine $1750.00
5. Electrum Shekel. Types as above, but 2 dots below exergual line. 7.63 grams. J-L 265. Virtually Extremely Fine. $2000.00
6. Electrum Shekel. Similar types, but 3 dots below exergual line. 7.49 grams. J-L 280. A touch of North African soil in protected areas, but Extra Fine and attractive $2250.00

HASTY SELLING VS. QUICK BORROWING

Selling your collection can be profitable if you have enough time to find the best prices. But a collection sold quickly is seldom sold profitably.

In any emergency, borrow the money you need at Edelman's. Use your collection as collateral and still retain complete ownership.

At Edelman's, you can obtain quick confidential loans for any amount up to 80% of the value of your properties — from $50 to $50,000 and more. Take as long as 30 months to pay with a repayment plan tailored to your specific needs. Your collection will be safely protected in Edelman's air-conditioned vaults until you reclaim it. Write today for further information.

Paying Top Prices

Not Just A Slogan But Guaranteed Results:

- 1) We are consistently one of the biggest buyers at any major coin convention we attend. The coins that we buy from other dealers have mostly been purchased from collectors. Why not sell to the top buyer?
- 2) Year after year we have bought more collections from collectors than other dealers on a competitive bid basis. We are not afraid to bid against our competitors; we welcome the opportunity.
- 3) We have one of the larger mail order businesses in the country and we are constantly in need of good numismatic material. Since we have the customers we can and will pay more.
- 4) We have never had to pass up a collection because of size. We will not try to buy your collection and then pay you for it as we sell it.
- 5) We spent over 100 days traveling last year to buy coins. Few can match this record. If you have a collection for sale, we would appreciate having an opportunity to show you how much we can pay.

You Have The Following Options Available:

- 1) You may ship your coins to us with the prices wanted.
- 2) You may ship your coins for our offer. We will contact you immediately with our offer.
- 3) Large collections we will travel to see.

Place Your Library In Good Hands

Remember the hours, the pride, the care in compiling your numismatic library. Sharing with others a fine book, yet enjoying and relishing it in your own time. We also appreciate fine numismatic books, catalogs, and periodicals and wish to preserve the care you gave them. Our customers share this feeling and would like your material for their enjoyment in the future. So when you want to sell your numismatic library, come to us, we care.

RARE COINS
is sound investing...
and we should know

We are specialists in rare coins and are experienced, knowledgeable and well established. It is a known fact that investments in rare coins over the past ten years would have made an average profit of over 30% per year.

If you are concerned about investing for your company, your institution or yourself, and would like the current facts about sound investment opportunities provided by rare coins in pension/profit sharing plans, HR-10/Keogh, IRA's and personal portfolios, please write or call us.

We also publish a monthly newsletter "Coin Talk" and would be pleased to send you a complimentary copy. Send your name and address along with $1.00 for postage and handling.

QUIETLY . . .

and with little ballyhoo, I've been paying up-to-date, current market prices for fine foreign coins, tokens, essays, and commemorative medals for many years.

Since 1958 I've been buying and selling numismatic items of quality, and with over 20 years of experience in foreign numismatics, a constantly increasing knowledge born of a real interest in and devotion to the subject, and a reference library which compares favorably to most, I feel I am well equipped to pay realistic prices for anything worthwhile you have for sale. Let me hear from you whenever you are thinking of selling.

COINS & CURRENCIES OF THE WORLD

Our first year in our new mall location has proven to be extremely successful. We are in need of choice numismatic material. Brisk inventory turnover has squelched our efforts to produce a fixed price list; however, we hope to be able to offer a list in the near future. Until such time, please feel free to send your want list for our quote.

WANTED! TOKENS & MEDALS related to DENTISTRY

From any and all countries of the world. Please send item or clear rubbing for my offer. Be sure to state if gold, silver, copper, tin, lead, zinc, or whatever.

These are for a collector friend of some 20 years' standing who has asked my help in furthering his collection. Because my friend now lives in a far-away place and only he knows what he already has, I have to forward offerings to him and await his answer. Thus it may take a couple of weeks for you to get a reply from me on these dental items. I will acknowledge your letter upon receipt and will get back to you. If you are a collector and long-time ANA member, I will simply put the two of you in direct contact. My interest in this matter is that of a friend and in no way commercial.

COLLECTIONS WANTED

We are actively seeking collections—USA, Mexico and Latin American. Any size. If you are seriously thinking of selling your collection, we will either buy outright, trade for bullion coins, or handle thru one of our auctions—whichever will bring you the best price for your collection. We will also consider individual rarities, especially in gold or silver.

If interested, please contact either Dr. George Vogt or Don Bailey. We are also interested in servicing your want list.

HOLLANDER COIN ALBUMS The most flexible coin holder system ever devised

- No unsightly empty openings.
 - Coins, completely visible on both sides, yet securely held.
 - Four album sizes.
 - Holds coins and medals 8 to 50mm.
- Ideal for mounting U.S. coins. The 51 different diameter openings make the albums particularly desirable for mounting medals and foreign coins.

A GOOD BEGINNING

BLUE BOOK '81

R. S. Yeoman's Handbook of U.S. Coins

All the facts about your coins and what dealers will pay for them. . . at your fingertips. From 1793 on, all U.S. copper, nickel, silver and gold coins are described and illustrated including mint records and mint marks. Premium values are listed in several condition columns. The 38th edition also provides helpful hints on collecting, grading and preserving U.S. coins. 128 pages, hardbound. No. 9050 - $3.50

WHITMAN COIN FOLDERS

For over 35 years coin collectors of all ages have stored their collections the most economical way. . . in Whitman Coin Folders. Today you can select from over 50 different titles: From Indian-Eagle Cents to the Eisenhower Dollar, from the popular "One-a-Year" to the latest "20th Century Type Coins" folders. All hold the coins securely in tight-fitting holes. The folders open flat and close to book-size for convenient storage. A special page gives historical data and other pertinent information. Date and quantity minted of each coin is printed below the hole. Only $1.29
